Poles Demand Canada Return Art Treasures

Note Warns of Steps to Obtain "Moral, Material Satisfaction"

OTTAWA, April 20 (CP).—The Polish Government tonight threatened to take steps to obtain "complete moral and material satisfaction" if Canada did not return the Polish art treasures.

In a 3,000-word note handed to the External Affairs Department and addressed to External Affairs Minister Pearson, the Polish Government demanded an immediate return of the fabulous treasures, brought to the Dominion for safe-keeping during the World War.

The note, presented by the Polish Minister, E. J. Milnikiel, charged that since the treasures were mostly in the hands of Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec, the international responsibility for the works of art "devolves upon the Canadian Government."

BEARS RESPONSIBILITY

It added further that "until all the Polish collections have been handed over to the Polish authorities, the Canadian Government will bear full responsibility for their fate, condition and protection."

However, it was believed the department would hold to a previous stand taken that Poland—a Soviet satellite country—must take its case to the Canadian courts.

IN MUSEUM

Most of the treasures, meanwhile, were still believed to be housed in the Quebec Provincial Museum.

The note, made public by the Polish Embassy, said the Polish Government "reserves the right to take all further steps in order to safeguard their rights and obtain a complete moral and material satisfaction" if, "contrary to well-founded expectations," the Canadian Government does not hand over the treasures.

The works of art, valued at several millions of dollars, contained the sword and coronation robes of Polish kings, suits of armour and historical banners, Chopin's manuscripts, and tapestries woven in gold, all of which had been part of a museum of art in the Polish castle of Wawel, Krakow.

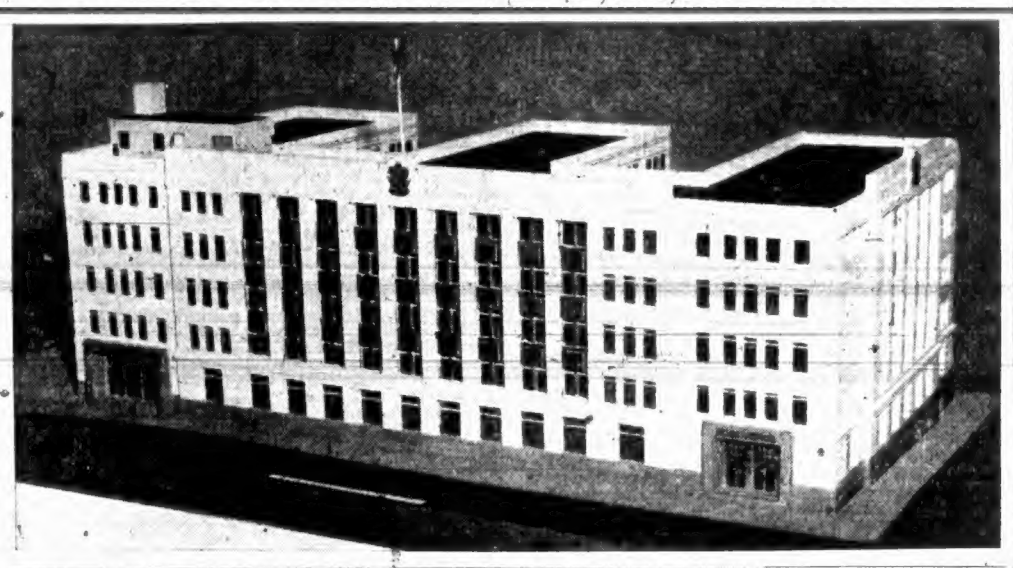
CONTROVERSY

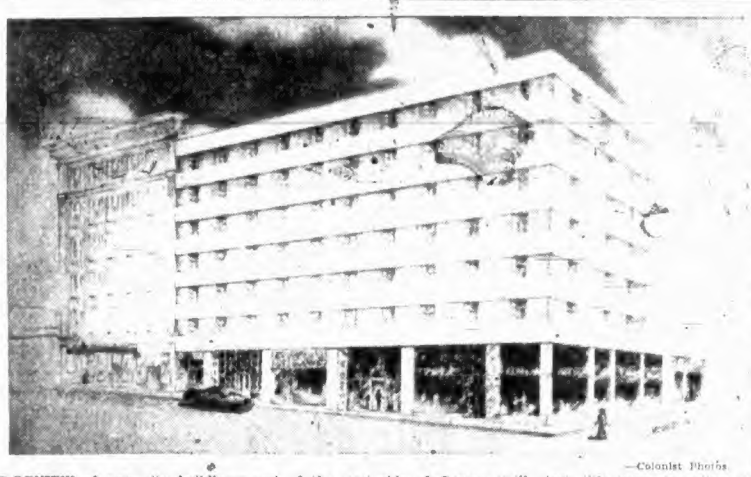
Ownership of the treasures has been the subject of controversy since Poland changed governments in 1946 and fell into the Communist orbit. The new Polish Government claimed it had the right to the treasures; Premier Duplessis declared the treasures were in reality, the property of the Roman Catholic Bishop of Krakow.

The treasures, once housed in an experimental farm building in Ottawa, also were the subject of an R.C.M.P. hunt when they disappeared from their places in storage in Ottawa and turned up in a Quebec nunnery.

As the R.C.M.P. were about to swoop down on them, the treasures were transported in trucks to the Quebec Provincial Museum, where Mr. Duplessis said they would remain until the ownership was rightfully established.

Victorians View Model of New $2,000,000 Post Office





—Colonist Photos

PREVIEW of new city buildings is included in the architectural exhibition currently on display at the Arts Centre, 823 Broughton Street. Included are a model of the new city post office and Federal building that will cost $2,000,000, and plans of proposed addition to the Strathcona Hotel.

Model at top shows two entrances of the new building, which will fill most of the west side of Government Street between Bastion and Yates Streets. Bank of Montreal building at Bastion Street will remain, but all other buildings will be torn down to make room for the post office building. Entrance at left will lead to Federal offices, concentrated under one roof as in the Belmont Building, and entrance at right will be to the post office. Work will start this year, according to Fisheries Minister H. W. Mayhew. Architect is P. Leonard James.

Also on display is a proposed addition to the Strathcona Hotel, shown below, which will include shops on the ground floor, and a major expansion of hotel space. Architect is F. W. Nicolls.

The exhibition, sponsored by the B.C. Institute of Architects, is on display all this week.

Third Warship Under Shellfire By Communists

Casualties Aboard Consort, Amethyst Now Reported 49, With 26 Known Dead

SHANGHAI, April 21 (Thursday) (CP).—Foreign naval sources said a third British warship was shelled today on the Yangtze by Communist artillery. There was no confirmation the craft had been hit.

First radio reports said the sloop Black Swan had been damaged and casualties, but the side of her hull that she had suffered 10 or more casualties. The dockyard was not casualties. Later, however, British naval sources here said they had not been informed of either damage or casualties aboard the ship.

Casualties aboard the sloop Amethyst and the destroyer Consort, two other British vessels attacked in the Yangtze Wednesday, amounted to 49, with 26 known dead.

CRUISER ON HAND

The British cruiser London was reported in the river area between Nanking and Shanghai, where the attacks occurred. She was ordered to the scene Wednesday. There was a possibility she might be called upon to bring her eight-inch guns into action.

British naval sources here said the shellings definitely came from the Communist side of the river.

The Black Swan, a 1,470-ton sloop, was standing by near the sloop Amethyst when last reported.

In the same area the Consort, 1,710 tons, was shelled later as she went to the aid of the 1,190-ton Amethyst, aground on Rose Island 60 miles downstream from Nanking.

These were the casualties as reported by the British naval attache office in Shanghai:

Amethyst—17 known dead, 20 wounded.

Consort—9 dead, three wounded severely.

WOUNDED REMOVED

The battered Consort arrived at Shanghai today and 16 wounded were removed.

Correspondents were not permitted aboard the destroyer and it could not be learned how many dead she carried.

The destroyer showed evidence of Amethyst had been refloated.

Lord Fraser, First Sea Lord, said in London the Consort "silenced the opposition for a bit" but was hit when she went up river to turn around.

CARRIED SUPPLIES

The Consort had steamed out of Nanking to the relief of the Amethyst, which was the first to be fired on. The sloop had left Shanghai for Nanking with supplies for the British embassy.

British authorities issued a press statement giving this official version of the Amethyst incident:

"The Consort was dispatched at full speed from Nanking at 11 a.m. today to aid the stricken Amethyst.

"The Consort encountered serious resistance when she came in sight of the sloop. The Amethyst signalled the Consort to turn back.

"The Consort, however, continued. When the firing died down, she turned back from a position two miles below the Amethyst and closed to take the sloop in tow.

HEAVY FIRE

"On approaching the Amethyst the second time, the statement said, "she again came under heavy fire and was forced to withdraw.

"Steaming downriver, she encountered brisk fire as the result of which she sustained the majority of her casualties. Her coxswain was killed and the steering gear temporarily disabled.

"Her total casualties include nine dead and three seriously wounded."

The Consort returned the Red fire "with her entire armament."

Yangtze Crossed By Reds

NANKING, April 21 (Thursday) (CP).—The Communists crossed the Yangtze today.

A spokesman for the Nationalist Government's Defence Ministry said the Reds surged across the great river at Tikang, about 80 miles southwest of Nanking, the capital.

The ministry spokesman said he did not yet have complete details, nor did he know in what strength the Communists had cagried their first thrust into South China.

30,000 MEN

Foreign military quarters said, however, they believed the Reds had landed a total of 30,000 men in the Tikang areas.

Nationalist artillery fired steadily across the river in the Nanking area. The sound of guns could be plainly heard in this gloomy capital.

Government gunboats were hammering at the Communist side of the river.

The Reds reopened the civil war yesterday with an offensive along more than 400 miles of the vital Yangtz Valley.

The bubble of peace, afloat for three months, had burst. The Reds struck after the Government rejected their latest peace offer. This "peace offer" amounted to a demand for total surrender.

Nanking, the capital, and Hankow, major supporting base 375 miles southwest, seemed the first objectives of Red armies 1,000,000 strong. To meet this shock the Nationalists had possibly 500,000 men.

Nanking shook from artillery attacks from three points across the river. Communist veterans from the conquest of Manchuria were attacking on the plains before Hankow.

The Nationalist air force, which had helped before, was far away in the Island of Formosa, a last-ditch Government redoubt. There was no hint it would be thrown into the battle of the Yangtze.

The peril to Nanking was great. At least two Red divisions were reported driving on Pukow, the railroad city on the north bank opposite Nanking.

Britain May Buy Wheat With Own Dollar Supply

WASHINGTON, April 20 (CP).—The United Kingdom may soon use her own supply of dollars, rather than Marshall Plan funds, to buy Canadian wheat, a British source said tonight.

This would accomplish two things:

1. Britain would be able to live up to the terms of the Anglo-Canadian wheat contract;

2. She would no longer have to ask the Economic Co-Operation Administration for permission to buy Canadian wheat, as long as that commodity continues in surplus in the United States.

"We definitely will carry out our part of the agreement with Canada; you can count on that," the source said.

E.C.A., which administers the Marshall Plan, said there has been no change in its policy concerning purchases of Canadian wheat for Britain.

Still uncertain, however, was whether E.C.A. will finance future wheat-buying in Canada as long as the United States has more than it needs for its own use. During the first year of Marshall Plan operations, about $300,000,000 was earmarked for British purchases of Canadian grain, mostly wheat.

The British source described the situation as "potentially embarrassing."

"Since March 1," he said, "Britain has not asked E.C.A. for money to buy Canadian wheat because she knows it might put E.C.A. in the position of having to refuse us.

"The idea now—and we feel it will work out in the long run—is to continue to buy from Canada, but with our own earned dollars. Then Britain might ask E.C.A. to make dollars available to buy the scores of other commodities which private British firms have been buying with their own dollars."

OTTAWA, April 20 (CP).—Government trade officers tonight termed as "splendid" a British proposal to continue buying Canadian wheat through the United Kingdom's own supply of American dollars.

Police Prevent Demonstration Against Malan

LONDON, April 20 (Reuters).—Police tonight stopped an attempt by Africans, Indians and others to burn a life-size effigy of Dr. Daniel F. Malan, South African Prime Minister, in Trafalgar Square.

The demonstration, directed against the racial policy of the South African Government, began outside the fashionable Dorchester Hotel where Dr. Malan is staying with the rest of his delegation for the Commonwealth Conference.

A truck bearing a representation of Dr. Malan and painted Swastika was driven past the hotel several times.

BULLETINS

Sees End

OTTAWA, April 20 (CP).—W. T. Wilson, deputy chairman of emergency control in the Finance Department, intimated tonight that an end to United States import restrictions may not be far off.

Plane Turns Back

FAIRFIELD, Calif., April 20 (AP).—A military transport plane carrying 23 persons to Hawaii turned back 700 miles at sea owing to engine trouble and landed safely at its base here tonight.

The Marine aircraft was flying a military air transport service run to Honolulu.

Assails C. C. F.

VANCOUVER, April 20 (CP).—Named tonight to seek re-election for the Progressive Conservative Party in the Federal riding of Vancouver - Burrard, Col. Cecil Merritt lashed out at the provincial C.C.F. for failing to vote support of the Atlantic Pact.

Strikers Will Permit Comox Food Cargoes

Striking drivers of the Island Freight Service Ltd. yesterday agreed to release their stranglehold on the hard-hit Courtenay-Comox-Cumberland area of Vancouver Island.

As the situation in the area became grimmer, with a serious shortage of foodstuffs looming, strikers from Courtenay reported that food and all kinds of freight would be permitted to come in through the Vancouver Barge Transportation Co. Ltd. without picketing.

COULD CONTINUE

But the severe economic blows—and the petty hindrances—besetting the Island as a whole could continue indefinitely in the light of news from Victoria.

Meeting in answer to wires asking intervention from Nanaimo and Port Alberni Councils and Nanaimo Board of Trade, the Provincial labor relations board ruled the strike of the 49 driver-members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers, Division 234 (C.C.L.), to be a legal strike within the meaning of the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act.

A board spokesman said the board had no power to compel either side to yield.

That left the issue up to the drivers and the company. Recent "final" offer of the company of seven cents an hour, retroactive to March 1, was entirely unsatisfactory to the strikers, who want the same scale paid to other drivers—$1.12 an hour, against $1 received before the strike.

MONTH OLD

Adamant stands taken by both sides made a long strike probable. Already the strike is a month old.

The board made no announcement of the results of the emergency meeting on the issue, which was held at the request of the Island centres.

Announcement by the strikers of the loosening of restrictions at Courtenay stressed that shipments of any kind of freight handled by the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway and the C.P.R.'s Ss. Princess Mary will be picketed as usual.

At Courtenay, no beer is left at the Government Liquor Store, and stocks of spirits will be exhausted at the end of the week. It was not known whether barge shipments would include beer and spirits.

Citing the shortage of meat, fruit and vegetables, Courtenay merchants said the strikers' action eliminated a serious danger.

Three Found Shot to Death

REGINA, April 20 (CP).—Three persons were shot to death and another found alive, with his throat slashed, in a farm home 40 miles southeast of Prince Albert, Sask., R.C.M.P. reported tonight.

Dead are: Mrs. Katherina Balataky, 29; her six-year-old son, Bohda; and A. D. Theodore Adamovic, 48. Husband of the dead woman, Andrew Balataky, about 35, was given an "even chance" of recovering from his wound.

Strikers Stand To Lose Homes

ASBESTOS, Que., April 20 (CP).—Spokesmen for the strikebound Canadian Johns-Manville Company announced today that striking workers who refuse to return to their jobs will "soon" be ordered to leave their company-owned dwellings.

The step, officials said, was being taken in order to house the "several hundred" men from surrounding districts who have replaced the strikers in the asbestos works.

Some 5,000 asbestos workers in the Eastern townships area went on strike February 13.

Reds Likely Aware Of Identity of Ships

By JAMES D. WHITE
A.P. News Analyst

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21 (Thursday) (AP).—Did the Chinese Communists know what they were shooting at when they fired on three British warships in the Yangtze River?

A great deal depends on the answer to this question.

There is an outside chance that they did not know. They had been shooting at Nationalist warships at the time. They may have thought the British ships were just more Nationalist vessels flying British flags as a ruse. If a mistake was made, it can be cleared up in time.

But the probability is that the Communists knew what they were doing.

If they did, it means that they have decided to go all the way this time—liberate (as they call it) the rest of China by force if necessary, and not be considerate of foreign feelings in the process.

From their standpoint, foreign feelings don't matter yet because no foreign Government recognizes them. Anything that stands between them and victory is likely to get hurt, and when that something is foreign and its presence acts—even unintentionally—as a shield to Nanking, the Reds are not likely to be more considerate, but rather less.

Housing Plans Being Studied

Plans for some veterans' housing on a part of the old Willows fairgrounds are under consideration, Reeve Robert A. Wootton of Oak Bay said last night.

The reeve made the remark after hearing a Citizens' Rehabilitation Council recommendation for a housing conference of Greater Victoria municipalities and Provincial and Dominion Government officials.

Council dabbed the letter from Chairman Forrest L. Shaw, who said his organization is still seriously concerned about the housing situation.

Seamen Pickets Jailed for Scuffle As Ship Strike Deadlock Unbroken

By The Canadian Press)

The Canadian Seamen's Union strike provided few positive developments yesterday to a background of court appearances in Halifax, boisterous meeting in Vancouver and a statement by Labor Minister Mitchell urging a settlement.

The Leftist-led C.S.U., a Trades and Labor Congress affiliate, called the strike March 31 when shipping companies signed agreements with the Seafarers' International Union, affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

In Quebec City late in the day an injunction was served on the C.S.U. crew from the freighter Sunrell. The ship's owners, Saguenay Terminals Company, followed the example set in Montreal earlier in the strike to bring about removal of C.S.U. crews on the arrival of ships in port.

The Sunrell's 27-man crew was replaced with S.I.U. members. More than 20 policemen were on hand. The transfer was carried out quietly.

All remained quiet in Montreal, rapidly becoming one of the principal ports involved in the strike. From other waterfronts came these reports:

The C.S.U. said its members remained aboard the Sunavis in the South American port and that an S.I.U. crew was aboard the Sunwhit.

OFFICIAL SAID GUNMAN

A meeting of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council turned into a stormy affair when an S.I.U. official from the United States was termed a "hired gunman" brought to Canada as "strike-breaker."

The man, Ed Goester of Seattle, an international representative of the S.I.U., said he had a permit to carry two guns in the United States, because he often carried large payrolls, but had no guns with him.

Goester and four other S.I.U. members left the meeting when their credentials were found not in order.

The council, by resolution, criticized the Federal Government for permitting ship owners to sign contracts with the S.I.U. while negotiating with the C.S.U.

The day's court appearances were all reported from Halifax. Two C.S.U. members, Angus Hingsley of Halifax and Michael Hyrcko of Arvida, Que., were each sentenced to one month's imprisonment on charges resulting from a picket-line scuffle a week ago.

H. C. Meade, the C.S.U. Atlantic organizer, and Augustin Genites of Montreal, the union's port agent in Halifax, were freed on $4,000 bail each on charges of possessing illegal offensive weapons. The cases were adjourned until April 20 for preliminary hearing.

On Way to Aid British Warships in Yangtze

This cruiser, H.M.S. London, was reported yesterday to be steaming toward the trouble area where the British vessels Consort and Amethyst were fired upon by Chinese Communist shore artillery. The Consort was fired upon when it went to the aid of the Amethyst.

Robeson Claims Negroes Would Not Fight Russia

PARIS, April 20 (AP).—Paul Robeson, United States negro singer, told the Communist-inspired World Peace Congress today that American negroes would never fight the Soviet Union.

His resonant voice injected the first fire into an otherwise monotonous opening session that heard repeated attacks from a series of speakers on the Atlantic Pact, United States atomic policy, the Marshall Plan and "Anglo-American capitalist imperialism."

Robeson brought the 2,000 delegates from 52 or more countries to their feet cheering with his call for a "fight for friendship" with Russia, the "Eastern democracies and a free China."

MESSAGE FROM NEGROES

"I bring you a message from the negro people of America that they do not want a war which would send them back into a new kind of slavery," Robeson told the congress.

He declared President Truman's program for colonial development, coupled with what he called the invasion of Africa by Edward Stettinius, former United States Secretary of State, "and his millions," meant new slavery for Africans.

He obviously was referring to the multi-million dollar development scheme for Liberia being backed by Stettinius.

"It is unthinkable," said Robeson, that American negroes "would go to war on behalf of those who have oppressed us for generations" against a country "which in one generation has raised our people to the full dignity of mankind."

Police Budget $297,184; Salary Costs Up $8,966

An increase of $8,713 in the city police salary budget will be submitted to the City Council by the police commission as a result of 4 per cent wage boosts awarded by a conciliation board last week.

Commission decided yesterday to give similar wage increases to non-sworn members of the police department. Boot money increases will cost $248.

Wage boosts to be awarded the police station's two heating engineers under a new agreement will cost the city $253, making the total wage increases $8,966. The two engineers recently resigned from the Victoria Police Federal Union and joined the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 918.

NEW SALARY SCALE

Edward Callan, union business agent, bargained with the commission for the engineers. Under the new agreement the chief engineer will receive $175 monthly plus the 4 per cent awarded all police department employees. His former salary was $164.50. The second engineer will receive $166 plus the 4 per cent, his former wage being $153.50. Increases will be retroactive to February 1. They will also receive three weeks' annual holiday pay instead of two to make up for working on statutory holidays.

Total police department payroll for 1949 now will be $236,792. Total budget will be $297,184.

The commission reviewed the conciliation board recommendations, and decided to seek interpretation of certain terms.

Crescent Not Likely To Be Used

OTTAWA, April 20 (CP). — The Canadian destroyer Crescent, standing by at Hongkong, is not expected to become involved in the hostilities involving the Royal Navy sloop Amethyst, a Naval Headquarters official said today.

The official said the main purpose of the Crescent in Hongkong was to protect Canadian nationals in the area. So far as was known, no Canadian nationals are involved in the fighting at Shanghai.

The Royal Navy has sufficient warships in the area to take care of any eventuality which might arise, he added, and would no doubt use its own vessels before asking the Crescent's assistance. In any event, the Crescent would have to pass any such request to headquarters, where it would be referred in turn "to top level" Government circles.

Canyon Bridge To Eliminate Rail Barrier

Engineers have solved the problem of crossing Cottonwood Canyon, the natural blockade which more than 25 years ago halted extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, it was learned yesterday.

The canyon bridge will be 920 feet in length and 220 feet high. Approaches will take up about 600 feet of the length. A span of 800 feet in length, 155 feet hight, will be built over Ahbau Creek.

It has been indicated here that first tenders on the railway's extension will be called in the latter part of May. In order to get location work finished, survey crews are battling heavy snow in the Quesnel area.

When this work is completed, bids will be asked for constructing a 12-mile link of the new 81-mile line northward from Quesnel. This work will push the railroad beyond its present terminus to the location of a material yard where equipment for the main construction will be assembled.

Mutiny Charges May Face Seamen

LONG BEACH, Calif., April 20 (AP). —Twenty-three unlicensed crew members of the deck, engineering and stewards departments of the Canadian freighter Argo John went on strike today. The ship's master, Shan Butler, said he may prefer mutiny charges.

The men are members of the Canadian Seamen's Union.

Block Signals Under Control Of Rail Board

OTTAWA, April 20 (CP).—Future plans for railway track signal installations must be inspected and approved by the Board of Transport Commissioners prior to installation, the board ordered tonight.

The order was contained in the first regulations ever issued by the board giving it control over the installation of automatic block signals for Canadian railways.

The regulations will have the effect, an official said, of "cutting down the number of railway traffic accidents in Canada and increasing the safetly of the railway traveler and employee."

Miners Stay Below Ground

LANSFORD, Pa., April 20 (AP).—More than 2,000 anthracite employees walked off their jobs today in support of ten miners staging a sit-down strike deep in a coal pit.

The sit-down strike was started Tuesday by 13 miners in protest of pay reductions. Three of the men weary and dirty, came to the surface today and returned to their homes.

Declares U.S. Hasn't Money To Buy What Canada Offers

KINGSTON, Ont., April 20 (CP). — Canadians are making a "spectacle" of themselves "in our frantic effort to peddle Canada for the United States dollar," Gregory Clark, sportsman and writer, told the Kingston Rod and Gun Club tonight.

"In my opinion the United States hasn't got enough money to pay for what they are taking out of the country," he said. United States residents were "begging to come over here to partake of those treasures which in their own country they have consumed and destroyed.

"The first thing we have got to do—not as sportsmen but as Canadians—is to take the policy-making of the tourist question out of the hands of those who profit from the tourist industry."

Nehru in London Spotlight As Commonwealth Chiefs Meet

LONDON, April 20 (Reuters).—Airliners brought Commonwealth leaders to London today for momentous talks on co-operation with the future republican India.

The spotlight was on Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, whose country has three-fifths of the Commonwealth's 500,000,000 population.

The statesmen assembled in optimistic mood, though it was recognized that solution of the constitutional problem before them may involve major revisions in the present concept of Commonwealth relations.

NOTHING ARRANGED

Nehru has said he is not committed to any specific plan. He has denied reports that "something has already been arranged" so India may remain part of the Commonwealth.

The other Commonwealth leaders are equally uncommitted.

What little comment there has been on the conference has been guarded, but preliminary Commonwealth reactions are clearly hopeful.

Prime Minister Peter Fraser, on his departure from New Zealand said: "We want India to remain in the Commonwealth. We hope it will be found possible for India to remain with the same status and on the same basis as the rest of the Commonwealth nations."

UNDERSTOOD RELATIONS

Canada is understood to be taking a broad-minded approach to the problem. It is thought in London that she would consider sympathetically some arrangement based on "understood relations," falling general agreement on a more rigid formula.

Australia is also known to be anxious to see India continue her important place on Commonwealth affairs.

Premier Malan of South Africa has indicated that he considers republican status and Commonwealth association not incompatible.

PRICE VIOLATION

VANCOUVER, April 20 (CP).—The Trans-Canada Import and Export Co. today was fined $1,500 in police court on a charge of violating Wartime Prices Board regulations.

The company was convicted of selling canned fruit juices at prices in excess of the maximum.

U.S. Appoints Admiral Kirk Moscow Envoy

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP). — Vice-Admiral Alan G. Kirk was appointed United States Ambassador to Moscow today.

Kirk is being transferred from the ambassadorship to Belgium. He also has been serving as minister to Luxembourg.

At Moscow, he will succeed Lt.-Gen. Walter Bedell Smith who was relieved recently to take command of the First Army in New York. Kirk, 60, is a native of Philadelphia.

As envoy to Belgium-Luxembourg, Kirk has not been identified with more violent phases of the "cold war" with Russia. This presumably figured importantly in his selection for the hottest spot in the American diplomatic service.

It means he goes to Moscow with an open record, from the Soviet standpoint.

Newfoundlanders Accord Drew Gala Welcome in Two-Day Visit

ST. JOHN'S, April 20 (CP).—George Drew, National Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, formally observed ties of kinship with Newfoundlanders today when he visited his great-grandfather's grave at an ancient fishing village.

Mr. Drew, ending a strenuous two-day campaign visit to Canada's new province, received a gala welcome at Port De Grave, settled in 1836 on the shore of Conception Bay, from which his grandmother emigrated to Canada as a girl. It is the oldest continuous settlement in Newfoundland.

STRENUOUS DAY

With a band of supporters and newspapermen, Mr. Drew drove some 150 miles today. He stopped at Carbonear and Harbor Grace as well as Port De Grave. Flags and bunting fluttered in his honor at many villages and roadside homes.

He addressed meetings at Carbonear and Port De Grave, and on some occasions left his car to chat with fishermen, farmers, storekeepers, housewives and children on the street.

In his speeches the National Leader reiterated statements made at meetings in St. John's yesterday. He called on Newfoundlanders to stand fast for provincial rights.

WILL BE BACK

He said he likely would be back in Newfoundland before the next Federal election and asked that the new union between the Dominion and this island be assisted "on the grounds of understanding, fellowship and good will."

H. G. R. Mews, provincial leader of the party, said that at one time he and his supporters had considered the possibility of a Newfoundland Nationalist Party but had discarded it in favor of greater co-operation with the Canadian Mainland.

Union Charges Discrimination

VANCOUVER, April 20 (CP).—Charges that the British Columbia Electric Railway Company is discriminating against the Street Railwaymen's Union were heard at the wages-hours conciliation hearing today.

Robert Cormack, business agent of Division 134, S.R.U., New Westminster, charged the company is favoring the B.C.E. Office Employees' Association which he labelled as a "company union."

The S.R.U. is seeking a reduction in working hours for its members from 46 to 40 with no drop in take-home pay, plus a cost-of-living bonus and other concessions.

Cormack expressed need for co-operation between the British Columbia Electric and its employees.

He told the conciliation hearing that the company would be in an "awful mess" if the union hewed right to the line in its contract.

Mission to Seek Canadian Trade

LONDON, April 20 (Reuters).—A 10-man trade mission representing Britain's agricultural-machinery industry is to visit Canada next month to investigate market possibilities.

The mission hopes to find out exact Canadian requirements and how they can be met from current and future British production at competitive prices and with an efficient servicing system.

The mission is due in Montreal May 3 and will stay about a month.

Recreation Centres' Display Ends Winter Season Friday

The Victoria Provincial Recreational Centres will hold a closing Winter display at the Victoria High School gymnasium on Friday at 8 p.m., it was announced yesterday.

This display brings to a close a Winter season with more than 1,300 men, women and children participating in the various activities conducted by instructors of the Pro-Rec Branch of the Department of Education.

Included in the display, will be numbers performed by members representing the Crystal Garden, Willow School, James Bay and Sidney Centres.

In charge of these numbers will be Mrs. Gwen Joyce, Mrs. Daisy Goodspeed and Eve Lattice.

George Smith will conduct a special acrobatic routine.

The men's section will be represented by members of the Victoria Acrobatic Club under the direction of E. Kelter, assisted by Jack Moffat.

Included in the display will be William O'Brien, Robert Jackson, John Crossley, John Clarkson, Jack O'Neill and other Victoria boys.

The Victoria performers, Verna and Larry Moore and their five-year-old daughter Darline, will be seen in a special routine.

CONCILIATION ASKED

The municipality of Saanich and the Saanich Fire Fighters' Association, Local 967, have requested W. T. McLaughlin, conciliation officer, to assist in reaching a collective agreement, Labor Relations Board officials stated yesterday.

The parties are unable to agree on the wage scale and statutory holidays requested by the union.

ORGANIST INVITED

Frederick Chubb, former Christ Church organist, has been invited as Canadian representative, and guest organist, at the third northwest regional convention of the American Guild of Organists, to be held in Portland on April 25 and 26, it was announced yesterday.

His program will include modern music from outstanding British, American and European composers.

Mr. Chubb is also adjudicating for the national semi-finals of the American Guild of Organists' competition while at Portland.

TRAM TRACKS COME UP

Heading for "the last mile," work crews of the California machinists company of Fancher & Fancher began the job yesterday of tearing up the last 25 miles of street car tracks in the city.

It is planned to work northward on Government Street, where the start was made yesterday, to Burnside Road, according to company officials. A second crew will begin later in the week to remove rails on Oak Bay Avenue, east of the Junction.

It was estimated the remaining rails would be removed within three or four months. The California firm is employing Victoria men, except in the case of personnel.

COLLEGE EXAMS ON

A schedule of final examinations, which began last Saturday and extends to April 30, faces the 273 freshmen and 118 sophomores at Victoria College.

Though it is the season when youthful fancies are easily turned, the next couple of weeks look "grey and grim" to students. Before they can throw their cares to the winds at their wind-up dance May 2, they must plow through long hours of "hitting the books" as they "hone-up" such subjects as biology, chemistry, physics, economics, mathematics and philosophy.

Examination results will be announced May. 11.

Chamber Anniversary Observed by Saanich

The Federal Government is in the role of a referee trying to see fair play among the provinces, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P. for Nanaimo told members of the Saanich Chamber of Commerce last night.

"It is the form of government which gives us the type of freedom built up by our forefathers."

The occasion was the 23rd anniversary banquet of the Saanich Chamber of Commerce, held in the Women's Institute Hall, Brentwood.

ACTIVITIES OUTLINED

Claude Butler, president of the organization outlined its more recent activities which included water for Brentwood; water for irrigation, provided the cost would not have to be shouldered by the farmers; better bus service in certain areas of Saanich; the promotion of sports and playgrounds; active interest in negotiations for the continuance of the Mill Bay ferry service, and a resolution protesting the "mountain differential."

A. J. R. Ash, M.L.A. for Saanich, described how the Chamber of Commerce, service clubs and other organizations have helped to make the community what it is today.

"If you are interested in your community you will pay attention to these people who speak on politics, over the radio, and on party platforms today," he said.

Take an interest in your community, exercise your franchise and the country will continue to grow, he concluded.

Other speakers included Percy Thorp, L. Thomson, M. Atkins, George Warren, D. McTavish, Fred Higgins, Major H. C. Holmes and George Benwell.

ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN

Meanwhile, Maxine Magee, eight, and Garry Howard, nine, highlighted the entertainment with a piano-saxophone number, "All Through the Night."

Other entertainers included Mrs. K. Pederson, Frank Aldridge, H. Vine, William Fleming, Donald Watling, Clifford Stacy, C. T. Overman and Fred Southwell.

Decorations at the banquet were under the direction of Ted Holloway, who completely filled the stage with a display of Saanich-grown daffodils and tulips.

Victoria Branch Meets to Mark St. George's Day

—Colonist Photo

Annual dinner of Victoria Branch, Royal Society of St. George, was held last night at Strathcona Hotel. St. George's Day falls on Saturday. Head table guests included group shown above. Left to right are Rev. W. R. Ashford, Mrs. Ashford, Sir Robert Holland, K. C. Symons (chairman), Mrs. F. Parsons, A. E. Cornwell. Songs were contributed by Kyrle Symons and Arthur Jackman. Latter shared the duties of accompanist with Harry Langley.

May Queen Receives Congratulations

Chosen last night to reign as Victoria's May Queen in May 24 celebrations this year, Belle Luscombe, 14, of Central Junior High School, is congratulated above by Clarence Johns, president, Victoria Lions Club.

Belle Luscombe Chosen City's Queen of May

Overjoyed and with tears of happiness on her face, a pretty, 14-year-old student of Central Junior High School stood on the stage of the Odeon Theatre last night to receive the ovation befitting Victoria's Queen of May—ruler of the May 24 Celebrations, this district's largest annual event.

She was Belle Luscombe, of 1465 Bay Street, whose popularity at school drew her recognition as the Central Junior nominee. Last night, luck smiled on her, as Major R. H. Green, chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board, drew her name first from a large bowl.

PRINCESSES CHOSEN

Next to be honored were Eva Webb, 15, of 3927 Cedar Hill Road, and Elaine Thomas, 14, of 1760 Denman Street, who were chosen as the 1949 princesses. They represent Mount Douglas High School and Victoria High School, respectively.

The candidates from the three remaining high schools of the district will act as ladies-in-waiting. They are Sylvia Ditchburn, 14, of 755 Hampshire Road, Oak Bay High School; Amber Kilshaw, 16, of 3143 Admirals Road, Mount View High School; Beverley Sweeney, 14, of 951 Craigflower Road, Esquimalt High School.

The brief ceremony last night opened when P. W. Gilson, chairman of the Lions May Queen Committee, introduced President Clarence Johns, who was chairman of the evening.

POPULAR STUDENT

Victoria's May Queen is a lively, popular member of her school, enjoying movies and parties in her leisure time. Active in many sports, she favors softball and roller-skating.

Scholastically interested at present in a commercial course, she hopes to major in arts at university.

Loss of sleep is more injurious to the body than starvation.

Road Program Awaits Action On Estimates

Work on the 1949 street improvement program will be pushed ahead as soon as public works estimates for the year are approved by council, City Engineer Cyril Jones stated yesterday.

In the meantime, city works crews are not idle, he advised. Men are working on jobs on at least a dozen city streets, including May Street, Amphion Street, Edgeware Road and Victor Street, said Mr. Jones.

Two mobile crews are constantly on the move making minor repairs to streets, he stated.

Mr. Jones said he could not embark on his program of street construction and reconditioning authorized by by-law until he knew how much of his current work program would be approved by council. A large current program might necessitate cutting down on street improvements authorized by by-law, because workmen could not be spared from pressing jobs.

Held Cheque for Back Debts, Hotelmen's Conviction Quashed

Conviction for theft against Edward C. Dobell and James McLean, co-owners of the Union hotel, Cumberland, were quashed in Appeal Court yesterday.

The court cleared them after ruling that withholding a Workmen's Compensation Board cheque for $29 from the man it was made out to unless he offered part of it as payment of back debts, did not constitute theft.

The pair were charged with theft of the cheque after John N. Maki, Cumberland, complained to provincial police they had showed it to him, but refused to give it to him unless he endorsed it and paid them half of it for back room and board.

ASSESSED $10 FINE

The hotelmen said they had found the cheque in their mail box. Magistrate W. H. Cope fined them $10 or 30 days in jail after finding them guilty of stealing the cheque March 3.

N. W. Spinks, Courtenay, lawyer for the pair, argued that the Crown had not proved intent to steal the cheque and added that the two thought they had a right to withhold the cheque, which had been forwarded by mail to Maki from Campbell River.

They claimed Maki had lived at their hotel from June to September in 1948 and had slipped out with his baggage one morning leaving behind a hotel bill for $124.80.

TERMED FANTASTIC

George E. Gregory, acting for the Crown, said the men were found in possession of a recently stolen cheque, and the law required them to explain. He said their explanation of how they got the cheque was "fantastic."

In allowing the appeal, Chief Justice Gordon McG. Sloan, said the court believed the hotelmen "honestly attempted to hold the cheque as security for money owing them."

"That position might be difficult to support in a civil case," he said, adding that in a criminal case such considerations took away the criminal intent of the act.

City Should Give Lead in Cleanliness

As indicated yesterday the three-day accumulation of rubbish and thrown litter from the Easter holiday period lay seemingly untouched on city streets. One corporation dustbin every ten blocks could not cope with it; even if these had been used, and obviously they had not. Torn paper blew in gusts along the trafficways. Dust eddied in dirty whirlpools on the sidewalks, the wind raising it into the eyes. Untidy, unkempt, unswept, the main downtown section of the community was no advertisement for this city of sunshine and flowers.

Merchants did what they could to clean the sidewalks in front of their own premises, but no amount of sweeping could keep pace with the blowing, and driven litter lifting and swirling from the city's gutters. Obviously the streets had neither been washed down nor swept by hose or by dustcart. This was the more unfortunate because individual efforts to stem the wave of dirt and dust were fruitless, leading only to discouragement. As an example of civic cleanliness it was deplorable.

What has become of the street cleaning equipment of the city? Years ago fire hoses were turned on at midnight and the streets washed down. Later, mechanical sweepers were bought and used to make the rounds of the downtown section regularly after nightfall, watering and sweeping in the same operation. Presumably this equipment is still here, but there was small sign yesterday that it is being used. Certainly for the centre of the city to look like a country fair after the crowds had gone home is not good enough.

More dustbins may be part of the remedy, but nothing can take the place of a proper system of cleaning the streets. If the corporation does not take that obligation seriously who else will? Yesterday Victoria looked like a dishevelled old harridan, frowsy, dirty and unkempt. Who would wish tourists to see that?

Action on Coast Guard Badly Needed

THE movement for establishment of a coast guard service is gathering momentum, to a point that warrants belief something will be done about it. The setting up of radio beacons and the building of lifeboats, in progress or in contemplation, are steps in the direction of the marine safeguard badly needed both on this coast and on the Atlantic, but only steps. Much more than this is required to provide the security that properly should accompany ships plying these waters.

Within their immediate areas lifeboats have proved their value beyond measure. In a country like Great Britain, with close settlement all along its shorelines, they play a part that cannot be duplicated here in quite the same way. A close radius of action limits lifeboats spotted at isolated points on the vast West Coast seaboard, and mishaps do not always take place at the convenience of rescue agencies. What is more imperative here is a sea-going patrol by ships equipped to give immediate aid to vessels in distress anywhere in coastal waters.

It is not expected that a coast guard service should blossom full-blown all at once. Knowing the financial difficulties involved, marine circles of the West Coast will be content that a modest start should be made. The main thing is to get the service started. After that, normal expansion would come as opportunity and funds permit. Shipping on this coast will not receive its due meed of protection until a coast guard service, similar in purpose to the United States agency upon which Canada depends at present as an act of grace, is in operation. One trusts that something positive will come shortly from Ottawa on the subject.

Increase in Drunken Driving Cause for Concern

ONE of the most disturbing features of the traffic situation in Victoria in recent months has been the sharp increase in the number of motorists who have been convicted by the courts on charges of drunken driving. Already, with the year less than a third gone, these convictions have reached a total exceeding that for the whole of 1948. That is enough to make decent people wonder what is happening.

This alarming increase in court statistics of drunkenness at the wheel may be explained in part by stricter enforcement of the law, but it cannot all be attributed to that. Nor does the greater severity now being applied in sentences of the courts appear to be having much appreciable effect. Hopes had been held by those concerned for the public welfare and traffic safety that the prospect of seven days in jail and suspension of licence for a year held before those who mix alcohol and gasoline would act as a strong deterrent, but results have not worked out that way so far.

Drunkenness and excessive speed are the factors responsible for most of the deaths and crippling accidents on the highways. Something more needs to be done to make the public roads unhealthy for the drunken driver. It may be that the courts should consider making the punishment even more drastic.

Letters and Excerpts

Letters to the editor on any topic of genuine public interest are welcome if they are brief, accurate and fair. No letter will be inserted, in whole or in part, except over the proper signature and address of the writer. Unsolicited correspondence cannot be returned.

MISS DORA KITTO

Sir,—May I be allowed space to express the very deepest regret at the passing of Miss Dora Kitto. Her amazing energy and untiring efforts in the cause so many of us have in common with her: A fair deal for all God's dumb creatures, was undoubtedly partly the cause of her breakdown.

The greatest tribute to her many years of voluntary work will be the carrying on of the same until the day dawns when cruelty becomes a thing of the past and kindness and justice are extended to all.

G. LANDMAN,
Vice-President, Victoria branch, Canadian Anti-Vivisectionist Society.

CANADIAN AUTHORS

Sir,—I should like to draw to the attention of aspiring writers the advantages obtainable through membership in the Canadian Authors' Association.

Canadians have their contribution to make to the pleasing and inspiring in life but until recently our writers have struggled under handicaps similar to those which have hampered our musicians, dancers, painters. Conditions in the publishing world have made it difficult for Canadian writers to present their work to the public.

Opportunities are increasing, however. More Canadian books are being given a chance of appraisal by readers at home and abroad. Magazines are devoting more coverage to the Canadian way of life. Newspapers are accepting material from free-lancers in place of some of the syndicated features and stories which flood across our borders from our good neighbors to the South.

This is all to the good. No one desires to see Canada become insular and Canadians should be interested in life outside our borders. But it's quite time we became acquainted with ourselves also, and incidentally gave the world a chance to see Canada from the Canadian viewpoint. We don't want to continue indefinitely as the "Unknown Country."

Much of the credit for improved writing opportunities must be given to the C.A.A., and while endeavoring to give Canada a voice in the world of literature, this organization also is trying to give Canadian writers a chance to escape the traditional attic and crust.

A standard form of contract has been drawn up. Serious injustices in income tax regulations have been eliminated. National officers are always ready to assist in vexatious problems concerning writers and publishers or agents. Craft groups formed within the various branches enable beginners to profit from the experience of more learned members. Canadian Book Week gives readers an opportunity to see what their own countrymen are doing.

There is admittedly much yet to be accomplished. But a start has been made and both professionals and tyros can help themselves and the craft in general by giving full support to our own association.

A. F. DAVIES.

From "Rabbi Ben Ezra"

Grow old along with me!
The best is yet to be,
The last of life, for which the first was made:
Our times are in His hand
Who saith "A whole I planned,
Youth shows but half; trust God: see all, nor be afraid!"

Not that, amassing flowers,
Youth sighed "Which rose make ours,
Which lily leave and then as best recall?"
Not that, admiring stars,
It yearned "Nor Jove, nor Mars;
Mine be some figured flame which blends, transcends them all."

Not for such hopes and fears
Annulling youth's brief years,
Do I remonstrate: folly wide the mark!
Rather I prize the doubt
Low kinds exist without,
Finished and finite clods, untroubled by a spark . . .

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I WAS amused to read that the United States Air Force regards the proposed 65,000-ton American aircraft carrier—what a whopper that flattop will be—as an invasion of their "exclusive right" to handle any long-range strategic bombing that may become necessary.

Apparently inter-service jealousies are as rampant as ever.

They always have been, in every country, and for all the talk of integration and three-in-one training it seems as though they always will be. It's mainly in official histories that comrades in arms act the part of comrades.

Rivalry is a good thing, of course, but the high brass carry it too far. They spike all efforts to weld the kind of unification that in 1949 should be the cardinal approach to national defence.

Just recently I finished reading General Holland M. (Howlin' Mad) Smith's story of the United States Marines he commanded in the Pacific. He visited Victoria some six months ago, incidentally.

Seemingly General Smith was always at odds with the American Army and the Navy. He was constantly being "slapped down" by the Navy Department for what they denounced as "grandiloquent representations." The Army, meaning General MacArthur, completely ignored the Marines in Bataan and the Philippines, he says, and never mentioned them in the communiques.

The Marine general, now retired, just "loves" his brothers in arms, I gather.

DEUCEDLY ANNOYING

That's how it goes among the higher echelons; you have to visit an all-service canteen for lower rank reactions.

My own first glimpse of inter-service intolerance was an inconsequential one, judged by important standards, but it was illuminating to me at the time, and deucedly annoying. I may have told this tale before, and if so you'll pardon the digression, I hope.

It was one night on Gallipoli when our battalion signalling officer, another bloke and I, laid a telephone line out into No Man's Land to an abandoned Turkish trench. The idea, I discovered later, was that one of our companies would sneak into it in the dark, and hold it until communication trenches could be dug forward to connect it to our front line.

After much apprehensive stumbling we arrived at the old Turkish trench. It was empty. Leaving me to wait for the arrival of the company, the other two decamped at a swift pace.

There was I sitting all on my little ownsome; and feeling as brave as a mouse. For all I knew the Turks might be a mere 50 yards away, and actually they weren't much more. In those days nobody ever showed you a map, and anyway I was then only an acting lance-corporal, unpaid, far too minor a character to be worth considering.

FRIGHTENING MOMENT

Well, I got tired holding the end of the telephone wire, and so I wrapped it round my bayonet and stuck the latter into the side of the trench. After what seemed hours I heard a decided commotion, accompanied by much swearing. I thought at first it was our company arriving, but no, it was a platoon of the Royal Naval Division, wandering God knows where.

In the process they had got all tangled up with the telephone wire and, unknown to me in the dark, the officer in charge had yanked my bayonet out of the ground and threw it over the parapet. As he passed I could hear him muttering about "those damned infantrymen." As it happened he was serving on Gallipoli at that time as an infantryman also, but then he belonged to the Navy and to him infantry meant Army.

I won't go into details, but eventually I had to crawl over the parapet in search of my bayonet and the precious wire, and I fell on top of a big, swelling, dead Turk. It was a frightening moment, I can tell you.

And all because of that Navy bloke.

Comrades in arms! I didn't think so then—nor for a long time to come.

What Price Atlantic Pact?

By RAYMOND MOLEY

NEW YORK.—The suggestion of presidential adviser Nourse that the cost of arming our Atlantic Pact partners come out of the United States defence budget makes a lot of sense. Nourse pointed out that since arms in Europe are defence for us—and that is substantially the meaning of the pact—we ought to be able to deduct those arms from our armament program here. It is likely that this Nourse argument will have wide support in a Congress which is facing heavy additional appropriations and a falling national income.

The President, as usual, following the urging of his military men, denies the Nourse idea. He makes it clear that the Atlantic Pact must be a charge in addition to E.R.P. and the defence budget.

* * * * *

Of course, no one knows what we shall be expected to contribute to the arming of the North Atlantic bloc. No conditions or agreements have been revealed as to what those countries will do for themselves and what efforts they will make to co-ordinate their own defences. Winston Churchill pointed out in his speech at Boston what a great factor 80,000,000 members of the British Commonwealth constitute in world affairs. But the fact remains that the brunt of a third world war or the brunt of preparedness against it will fall upon the United States.

Nor is it indicated clearly what the cost of the Atlantic Pact will be. In early discussions the guess was that it would be between $1,000,000,000 and $2,000,000,000. Some have specified the cost at $1,800,000,000. We can take it for granted that it will be $2,000,000,000 annually.

In short, and considering the changed purchasing power of the dollar, this will amount to about all that the United States spent for its own defence ten years ago. Adding this amount to our huge defence budget is no light matter.

* * * * *

The Nourse suggestion is especially important in light of the Hoover Commission's report on the defence establishment. A reading of that report makes it clear that at least a billion or two could be saved in the present estimates by more efficiency. A former Secretary of War told this reporter recently that we could, with greater efficiency, secure our present military aims at a cost of $2,500,000,000 less than the $15,000,000,000 estimate.

Much will depend on the course of the cold war. We have launched a series of challenges which seem to be exerting a profound effect on the balance of European power. The E.C.A. may be more costly than is necessary, but it is definitely strengthening the beneficiary countries. The new Berlin currency is causing violent financial indigestion in the Russian sector. The airlift has given the West immense prestige in Germany. And the Atlantic Pact is a stiff warning to Russia that further Communist infiltration in Western Europe will be effectively barred.

* * * * *

Russia is screaming protests, but it is doubtful whether she is more likely to precipitate conflict than she was two years ago. If the cold war is not intensified, there may be strong reasons to take the advice of Nourse and to tell the military establishment to save what Europe needs by increased efficiency at home.

Is Baby Kissing Out?

(From The Ottawa Citizen)

PRIME Minister St. Laurent appears to be initiating a fascinating new approach in the politicians' fight for women's votes. In the past, men running for office have been content to flatter their female constituents by indulging in lavish baby-kissing sprees. It was generally conceded that the best way of obtaining a woman's X on a ballot was through her child. But Mr. St. Laurent, in his broadcast, has made a direct appeal to women on the basis of his own personality and record. In view of the competition he must face, the Prime Minister's new method of attack marks him as an intrepid man.

If Mr. George Drew, leader of the Opposition, decides to meet the Prime Minister head-on in this campaign for women's votes, the country may well be treated to as stern a political struggle as any it has ever seen. Mr. St. Laurent, with the grandfatherly approach, has already fired an opening salvo that definitely calls for some intensive counter-battery work by Mr. Drew. In asking Canada's women to write to him personally about their troubles, the Prime Minister has found a way of giving every woman in the Dominion a chance to unburden herself to a man she feels is not only interested in her problems, but is prepared to do something about them. It beats baby-kissing any time.

Mr. Drew is not, perhaps, in a position to ask all the women of Canada to write to him, for he is only leader of the Opposition. However, everyone must concede that his handsome presence and impressive bearing can be used to excellent advantage in this battle. Perhaps he is no Tyrone Power, but as against Mr. St. Laurent, time is on his side. It will not be easy for women to determine whether they would rather vote for a man to whom they can narrate their difficulties, or one who, like Mr. Drew, is likely to make their hearts skip a beat.

Whichever the women choose it looks as if the babies will enjoy what for them will be the most sanitary campaign in a long time.

A woman got on a bus and took the only empty seat, next to a harmless-looking reveller. Soon she opened a map of Manchuria and began to study it.

The reveller gazed at the map for a while and finally addressed the woman in an interested tone: "Sure you're on the right bus?" he asked.

BRAINS

Irving Berlin could take a worthless piece of paper and write a song hit on it and get $50,000 for it. That's genius. J. D. Rockefeller could sign his name to a piece of paper and make it worth a million. That's capital. A man can buy $8 worth of steel and make a $1,000 worth of watch springs out of it. That's skill.

But when a fellow finds an apartment that suits him and when the manager asks "Have you any children?" puts on a long face and answers, "Yes, but they're all in the cemetery," pays six months' advance rent, gets a receipt, then goes out to the cemetery to get his children and brings them to the apartment, that's brains.—The Nanton News.

Observation Car:

By G. B.

"I HAD quite an argument with my wife last night about daylight saving time," Bill, the Broad Street barber, remarked to the shop in general. "How did you come out?" Barber Ben asked. "He came out running," the boss interjected . . . From the Keating Squire: "No scientist has ever explained what clothes moths lived on in the days of Adam and Eve" . . . "Apple pie and strong coffee, please," Tobacconist Martin said to a waitress when he sat down on a stool at a lunch counter. "We have some pie like mother used to make," the waitress observed. "Many a restaurant pie has more crust than a door-to-door salesman," Martin retorted . . . Inspector J. F. C. Vance, one of the leading criminologists of North America, plans to retire from the Vancouver Police Department on May 2. He is well known to Greater Victoria police, having worked on many local murder cases with no remuneration except his expenses. Witnesses at trials were always astounded when the inspector could take a human hair and explain after laboratory analysis: "This hair came from the head of a man about 55 years of age, possibly six feet tall, and suffering from rheumatism. He was employed in an office at some kind of clerical work, and generally did not wear a hat." Inspector Vance was rarely wrong in his deductions. He has served the police department for 42 years, and will be missed for many years to come . . . Nearly 300 wells have been drilled in the State of Washington in a search for oil since 1890. The first well went down 350 feet near Stanwood in Snohomish County, but yielded no oil. The deepest well was drilled 11,002 feet at Martha Lake, north of Seattle, in 1947. Some geologists believe breaks in the underground strata cause oil to seep away in the neighboring state.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

CHORAL or choric reading is something new and beautiful in public school education. Choirs of from twelve to thirty children are trained to speak poems together. The effect on the hearer is magical. The effect on the children who speak is a little beyond calculation.

The average child would die rather than sing alone in public; he sings gladly in company with other children. A rough, tough little red-headed boy would die before he would speak in public. In a choir, he lets go.

Above all, he learns to speak and pronounce words. The other day, I got onto a bus that was loaded with young girls from a fashionable private college for well-to-do children. I was never more astounded; they were barely intelligible. They squealed, squalled and slurred their words together in the most incomprehensible sounds.

Choric reading was started in the downtown schools of the big cities, perhaps in the notion that there the pronunciation of English might be a more serious concern than in the uptown schools. The day may come when the mark of an expensively-educated person will be the manner in which he or she mutters, mumbles and slurs words.

Choric reading is spreading rapidly in the schools all over America. It may be in time to compensate for the damage being done to spoken English on the screen and the radio. However, twenty years ago, I heard Charles Laughton recite the Gettysburg Address in a film, "Ruggles of Red Gap." I have lived in tireless hope that Laughton might some day, in one of his roles as a broken-down derelict, recite the first twenty-four lines of Keats' "Endymion." Meanwhile, to hear a choir of thirty children speak the same lines must be ravishing.—Canada Wide Feature Service, Ltd.

Like oysters and clams, scallops have shells in two halves and live in the sand or mud under shallow water. Their shells, however, are much thinner and fluted. The edible part of the scallop is the powerful muscle which serves to close the shell against its enemies.

Looking Back

Through Colonist Files

25 YEARS AGO—A contract for the construction of a new gas tank in the Pembroke Street yards, to cost between $150,000 and $175,000, has been let by the B.C. Electric Railway Company.

50 YEARS AGO—The Spring rush of miners and prospectors has begun . . . Hundreds of men who make Victoria their outfitting point are starting out for the Klondike and Atlin goldfields.

85 YEARS AGO—The schooner Winged Racer has brought six tons of sample coal from a vein situated between Clallam Bay and Fish River. A company chiefly composed of Victorians is opening the vein.

German Source Says Russia May Lift Ban

BERLIN, April 20 (AP).—A high German official declared today Soviet Russia is ready to propose a German settlement, including lifting of the Berlin blockade, if the West will bar Germany from the North Atlantic Alliance.

Confirmation was lacking from Allied authorities. Gen. Lucius D. [illegible] governor, said he knew of no new Russian overtures. The Russians kept silence. A small-power consular official, however, said he had heard the report and believed it.

WELL INFORMED

The German source is about as well informed as any German in this divided city, which is seething with rumors of an impending break in the situation.

He said the Russian plan would provide for lifting the Soviet blockade of Western Berlin, withdrawal of both Russian and Western Allied armies from Germany and formation of a central German Government at a parley of the foreign ministers of Britain, United States, France and Russia.

The Russian aim, according to this source, is twofold:

1. To establish a "vacuum" Germany between the Rhine and Oder Rivers, unlikely to represent a threat to the Soviet Union.

TO SAVE FACE

2. To retire from an untenable position and yet save face.

How such a proposal would be received by the West is conjectural.

The United States, Britain and France are agreed there will be no further four-power parleys on Germany until the Berlin blockade is lifted. They are committed also to a long occupation of Germany, while Russia has sought to get all troops out soon.

The Russians have built up a Communist police force in Eastern Germany which many Western officials say is intended for just such a situation — to continue the Communist rule begun with the protection of Soviet bayonets.

Liberals Name C. J. McDowell

PENTICTON, B.C., April 20 (CP).—C. J. McDowell of Vernon will contest the Yale Federal riding for the Liberals at the forthcoming elections. He was selected over four other candidates at a nominating convention held in Penticton this afternoon. Other candidates were Miss Hilda Cryderman, Vernon; Mr. Harvey Ross, Oliver; and A. W. Gray, Rutland.

The convention produced some stormy moments before a decision to proceed with nominations was made. The resolution to not nominate a Liberal candidate in Yale was defeated by secret ballot. Meanwhile, the C.C.F. unanimously renominated O. L. Jones, sitting member, to be its candidate.

Oddities

READING, England, April 20 (AP).—Doreen Blackwell told the Reading town magistrates today her parents wouldn't let her marry Ronald Williams until after the 1950 general elections because they are afraid the Conservatives might win.

Her father, a Labor Party man, said "If the Conservatives get in there will be thousands of unemployed, and Ronald might be one of them," 18-year-old Doreen testified.

The magistrate said she could go ahead and marry Ronald. The decision was handed down by the chairman, G. S. Field—a Conservative.

HUDSON, Mass., April 20 (AP).—A mother cat and her new-born kittens were cuddled cosily today in a bird's nest, 20 feet up in an apple tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lamburn found the family Tuesday after a two-day search for their pet.

They said the nest was in a large hollow of the tree.

Sharing the kittens' nest are two bird's eggs.

WENATCHEE, Wash., April 20 (AP).—There wasn't any stretch to Mr. and Mrs. Chester Parker's fish story, even if they were fishing from a rubber boat.

Parker lost his billfold overboard in the murky waters of Rat Lake.

Fifteen minutes later Mrs. Parker felt a "nibble" and reeled in the billfold. Parker said the fish hadn't taken a cent of his $80.

Cancer Virus Isolated by Research Group

SIGNIFICANT milestone in mankind's fight again dread cancer is announcement from Columbia University, New York State, that scientists of newly-established Institute of Cancer Research have identified and isolated cancer virus in animals. Virus isolated is that which causes breast cancer in mice, disease which closely resembles human breast cancer, most common form of disease and one that attacks about one in every 25 women. Virus was isolated from actual milk of mice, virtually all of which developed breast cancer late in life. With this as start, scientists are optimistic they are on the threshold of discoveries that will reduce incidence of cancer in human beings. Left, photo of cancer virus, magnified 25,000 times by electronic microscope, and appearing like small beads against background. At right is Dr. Stanley Graff, associate professor of bio-chemistry at Columbia's College of Physicians and Surgeons, who announced discovery.

Canada Asserts Russia Trying To Subjugate Church in Europe

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., April 20 (CP).—Canada today told the United Nations the Communist states of Eastern Europe are persecuting religious leaders in an attempt to subjugate the churches.

But Hugues Lapointe, parliamentary assistant to Canada's External Affairs Minister, predicted mankind's desire to protect freedom of conscience would prevail.

BACKS PROPOSAL

The Liberal member for Lotbinière, Que., backed a Bolivian proposal before the General Assembly's 58-member special political committee. That proposal calls for U.N. approval of action taken by Britain and the United States concerning the trials of religious leaders behind the iron curtain.

Under the Bolivian resolution, direct action by the Assembly would be deferred until the Fall session while Britain and the United States sought redress from Hungary and Bulgaria, charged with violating the human rights guarantees of the peace treaties.

Australia presented another suggestion, similar to one initiated by Cuba, to send a special commission to Europe to investigate the trials of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, Roman Catholic primate of Hungary, and 15 Protestant church leaders in Bulgaria.

CASE PRE-JUDGED

Backing the Bolivian proposal, Sir Alexander Cadogan reviewed the trial of Cardinal Mindszenty and said the Hungarian Government's yellow book on the case issued last January 19 showed the "Hungarian Government had prejudged the result of the trial and would have considered it a disaster if the trial had resulted in an acquittal."

Cardinal Mindszenty was sentenced to life imprisonment for crimes against the state.

Sir Alexander said the reported confessions of the Bulgarian clergymen were false. Commenting on that trial, he told the delegates it was "one more proof that Communism is inflexibly opposed to organized religion and to all sources and rallying points of independent thought."

Alaskan Pilot Falls to Death

SEATTLE, April 20 (AP).—A pilot for the Sourdough Air Transport of Anchorage, Alaska, fell 4,000 feet to his death early today from a company plane shortly after it took off from the Annette Island Airport.

Capt. Ed Brenner, first pilot, reported that the third pilot, Dave Huycke, was "sucked" from the plane as he sought to check a draft around the door.

Chilean Quake Fatal to 57

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 20 (AP).—Southern Chile today counted at least 57 dead and 150 injured in a severe earthquake which struck the area last night.

Heavy damage was reported in the cities of Traiguen and Angol. At Traiguen, believed to be the centre of the quake, about 30 persons were reported killed in the collapse of a jail.

The Government rushed aid to the region, where hundreds were reported homeless.

City officials said half the houses in Angol had crumbled or were badly damaged.

Boy Faces Charge Of Robbery

VANCOUVER, April 20 (CP).—Vancouver's "baby bandit," a 16-year-old junior bank clerk, today was charged with armed robbery. He will appear for hearing in juvenile court tomorrow, police announced.

Desire for a motorcycle may have prompted him to hold up the bank where he was employed.

Friends said the boy, who escaped with $1,648 yesterday from the Granville Street branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, had wanted a motorcycle. He had been saving money to buy one.

Eight hours after his escape, he surrendered to police on downtown Granville Street last night.

"I give myself up," he told a constable standing on a corner.

He immediately surrendered a gun—unloaded—and the money, all except $2 which he had spent on "eats and the movies."

He was held in Juvenile Detention Home overnight and today was questioned at police headquarters.

The boy's name cannot be disclosed because he is a juvenile.

After holding up the bank teller during a lunch-hour lull, the boy attended two shows, and visited a shooting gallery.

"He hid in theatres most of the time," said a police officer. "He was scared stiff."

Earlier, his distraught father had broadcast a radio appeal "Please call home. Come home or contact the police. It will be better in the long run."

CAN'T EXPLAIN

At the police station, he told his father: "I don't know what came over me."

He surrendered after a talk with an acquaintance in the shooting gallery.

The boy's parents, who came here from Hamilton, Ont., six months ago, live in suburban West Vancouver.

"I don't know whatever could have possessed him," said his mother. "He's not a bad boy. We're glad he surrendered."

Saskatchewan Gets First Light Rain

REGINA, April 20 (CP).—The first widespread light rain this Spring fell in Southern Saskatchewan today. It brought a negligible amount of moisture.

Reports of the light rain came from nearly all points in the southern part of the province and as far north as North Battleford.

Solving Indian Status May Be Business Deal

Interpreting the News

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
A.P. Foreign Affairs Analyst

The great question before the British Commonwealth Conference, which begins in London Thursday, is whether a means can be found for continued Indian membership.

Another is whether Pakistan and Ceylon can be far behind if the new Hindu Republic pulls out in August.

One thing is certain. India's new constitution requires an end to her allegiance to the Crown, and some substitute for this must be found if she is not to go the way of Burma and Ireland.

FUTURE TROUBLES

Another thing that seems sure is that Pakistan, which does not seem agitated over the matter now, and Ceylon, which seems loyal to the Crown, will not be able to accept for long any state of independence which is less complete than that of India.

Not that India is trying to get out of the Commonwealth. There are many reasons, including security, why she wishes to stay in. She merely poses the question to Britain and the other members: "How do you propose to let us stay as the republic we are going to be?"

Britain is anxious to answer with an acceptable proposal, but there is no indication that members of the Commonwealth have been able to find it yet. They say the Commonwealth idea itself was evolved to meet needs of the moment, and that it can be changed again. But suggestions have been somewhat vague.

They might work out a system whereby the Commonwealth nations, instead of being bound together by allegiance to a common king, would adopt a system of interlocking treaties. Those desiring to retain the King as their symbol of unity could do so, making treaties with those who do not. Or the whole thing could be put on a strictly business basis through joint agreements.

It wouldn't make much difference to the King, or to Britain, since one is merely a symbol and the other merely the point of co-ordination, without ruling power. Something probably will be worked out, but it may not be easy in view of the sensitive issues involved.

Rival Ships Stand Idle In Dispute

Marine News

The situation regarding two [illegible] of the Canadian Seamen's Union and Seafarers' International Union, and the Esquimalt drydock area, remained unchanged yesterday.

Ss. Riverside was taken out of drydock early Tuesday morning and tied up at the drydock jetty. She still has no propeller. Nearby, at the jetty of H.M.C.S. Naden, the Ss. Seaside is still tied up. There are S.I.U. crews aboard each vessel.

The C.S.U. picket line is being maintained at two road approaches to the drydock area.

Workmen of the Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd. removed the Riverside's damaged propeller last Friday, but before a replacement could be made the C.S.U. picket line had been established and the V.M.D. workmen refused to pass through.

The ship was plugged and made ready for leaving the drydock on Monday.

Both ships, here from Vancouver, have no cargo in their holds. Their immediate future movements are unknown.

The C.S.U. picket line has prevented delivery of any food to the two ships.

CADET AWARDED PRIZE

Sea Cadet Don Gosse of R.C.S.C. Rainbow has been awarded the Galer-Hagerty rifle-shooting prize for his score of 366 in last year's Inter-Cadet Service (Youth of the Empire) and Dominion of Canada Rifle Association competitions, it was reported yesterday.

Sea Cadet Gosse's prize was a copy of "The Life and Times of Winston Churchill," presented to him at a recent parade of Rainbow's ship company here. With the prize went congratulations of the Imperial Cadet Association and the director of Sea Cadets in Canada.

He also received a rifle and star badge for an average of 90-plus.

In 1939, the local sea cadet organization was in third place in the British Empire and first in Canada, winning the King George V Cup and Admiral Jellicoe's Sword.

Members of the Rainbow Cadet Group here have received considerable recognition over the past several years for their rifle marksmanship, and the trophies and other awards presented them are numerous.

"Young Mr. and Miss Winnipeg" Arrive Here

Colonist Photo

Being sponsored by Winnipeg Rotary Club on 7,300-mile flying trip by Trans-Canada Air Lines across Dominion, "Young Mr. and Miss Winnipeg" arrived here yesterday for one-hour visit. Their trip started last Monday and will end at Winnipeg May 9. Couple is pictured above. Between them is H. J. Pendray, past president of Victoria Rotary Club, who welcomed them to city. Trip is aimed at publicizing Winnipeg's 75th anniversary of incorporation, to be marked between June 5 and 11.

Young Mr., Miss Winnipeg Visit City On 7,300-Mile Cross-Canada Tour

Herbert Bannatyne, 16, and his petite red-haired sister, Donna, 14, arrived in Victoria yesterday afternoon to complete the first leg of a 7,300-mile trans-Canada air trip which started from Winnipeg last Monday.

The couple, known as "Young Mr. and Miss Winnipeg," are travelling across the country in Trans-Canada Air Lines planes, visiting principal cities in the ten provinces, and carrying letters to Lieutenant-Governors, Premiers and mayors, asking them to pass on an invitation to visit Winnipeg during the week of June 5 to 11, when the Prairie city celebrates its 75th anniversary of incorporation.

SELECTED FROM 100

Herbert and Donna were selected from a group of more than 100 Winnipeg teen-agers for having the greatest number of Winnipeg-born ancestors. Their trip is being sponsored by the Winnipeg Rotary Club.

Shortly after arrival here at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the two youngsters were greeted by H. J. Pendray, past president of the Victoria Rotary Club, and R. L. Williams, district sales and traffic manager for T.C.A.

During the brief stay of less than an hour in the city, they visited the City Hall. Mayor Percy E. George was attending an important meeting at the time and was unable to meet them.

Included among Herbert's and Donna's relatives born in Winnipeg were both their parents, two grandparents, two great-grandparents, and one great-great-grandmother, 11 aunts and uncles, 21 great-aunts and uncles, 19 great-great-aunts and uncles, and 14 great-great-great-aunts and uncles.

EARLY SETTLERS

Original members of their family went to the Winnipeg area 148 years ago with the Northwest Trading Company. They returned to Scotland, but returned 15 years later as members of the Selkirk Settlers. And the family remained and grew.

Both Donna and Herbert are direct descendants of one of Winnipeg's illustrious early settlers — A. G. B. Bannatyne, who was a member of Manitoba's first Legislature in 1870, and in whose home the Legislature originally met.

This marks the first time Herbert and Donna have been out of their home province. Accompanying them as chaperone is Miss Jean Hinds.

The young couple left Patricia Bay at 4:30 p.m. for Vancouver. From there they will fly to Edmonton, and later complete the Eastern Canadian circuit of T.C.A.

Six Generals Ahead Of Colonel for Job

NEW YORK, April 20 (NANA) —A former Luftwaffe colonel eagerly searched through the "help wanted" ads of a Munich newspaper. He read of a position as private chauffuer and rushed out to apply for the job.

When the colonel arrived at the employer's address, he learned that six former generals of Hitler's Army and Air Force were ahead of him in the line, reports the Hanover newspaper, Der Spiegel.

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—A New Yorker is reported negotiating for the purchase of Outer Ball, an island near Soldier's Rip, site of the international tuna tournaments. It is believed the prospective buyer intends to put up a first-aid station there for tuna fishermen.

Auctioneers Will Need Permit To Sell Real Estate, Board Told

Commencing July 1 of this year auctioneers will not be allowed to sell houses or other real estate without a special permit, it was reported yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the Victoria Real Estate Board at the Empress Hotel.

The special permits, explained President Jack Fraser, will be issued by Stanley Taylor, administrator of the Real Estate Licensing Act.

Members of the real estate board agreed that anyone including auctioneers—selling homes or other real estate should possess qualifications which must be met by real estate agents before they obtain their licences.

CITES OPPOSITION

Opposition to the amendment to the Real Estate Licensing Act, which necessitates the special permit for auctioneers to sell homes, was brought to the meeting by Gladwell Kilshaw, who claimed the amendment, if carried to the extreme, might mean cutting off the livelihood of a number of city auctioneers.

Mr. Kilshaw readily agreed, however, that anyone handling the sale of real estate should possess the proper qualifications.

He pointed out that Victoria auctioneers pay $200 for a licence, "a higher rate than prevails in any other part of Canada." In Vancouver, he added, the fee was $100.

Speaking about auctioneers selling real estate, Mr. Kilshaw suggested that efforts be made to reduce the licence fee, and make a bond an absolute necessity. It should be possible, he continued, for real estate firms and auctioneers to co-operate and work together.

TALKS ON LEAGUE

Aims and objects of the Victoria Non-Partisan League were presented to the board by Walter Walker, who said the league was now seeking additional members. The league, he noted, "represented no vested interests, and belongs to no political party."

The league was striving to see that suitable persons were nominated for and elected to civic government posts. Membership of the league was now about 250, he said.

Whether or not the local real estate board will remain affiliated with the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards will be decided at an annual meeting of the local branch to be held May 18 at the Empress Hotel.

Pain at Inner Side Of Knee Joint

By DR. J. B. WARREN

When there is a pain at the inner side of knee, not due to direct injury, it is because the weight of the body is not distributed properly. In many cases this is because of flat feet, which causes feet to turn outward and weight of the body goes down to inner side of knee. By lifting up the arch or instep or in extreme cases wearing an arch support the pain in knee disappears.

Life Underwriters Stand Firm Against Government Insurance

Government should stay out of the life insurance business, A. Gordon Nairn, executive vice-president of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, said yesterday.

He told a Victoria and Island sales congress of the association in the Empress Hotel yesterday that "no one in the life insurance business is opposed to social security legislation to take care of minimum needs."

But he warns against promises of government social security that went too far.

PRICE COMES HIGH

Germans and Italians were told they would no longer have to worry about unemployment, food or shelter, he said, but they found "the price they paid for such security was the loss of their freedom, and in return they did not even get the promised economic security they wanted."

He pointed out the efficient operation of life insurance in Canada with policyholders getting back 85½ cents for every 72 put in, and said even the British Labor Government was against nationalization of life insurance.

Clarence McN. Steeves, national president of the association, told members of the contributions to themselves and their community membership entailed and urged a vigorous membership campaign.

POINTS ON SELLING

Harry Phillips, million-dollar life insurance salesman in New York told of "the great men in life insurance" and how they got that way in his address on "selling."

Other speakers included John L. Bennett, Dominion Life Assurance Co., New Westminster; Leo Hogan, Canada Life Insurance Co., Portland, Ore.

The all-day congress was opened by Minister of Mines and Municipal Affairs R. C. MacDonald. Norman Tanner, president of the Victoria branch was chairman for the morning session, George Gordon for the afternoon sitting.

Victoria Man Given High Dutch Award

Lt.-Col. Charles Archibald McVittie, a former Victorian, has been decorated by Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, according to word received here yesterday by his mother, Mrs. A. W. McVittie, 1565 Wilmot Place.

Now in business in Manila, capital of the Philippines, Lt.-Col. McVittie has received the Order of Orange Nassau, with Swords, in the degree of Officer, from the Dutch Government for World War service in the South Pacific.

EDUCATED HERE

Col McVittie was born in Winnipeg, but came to Victoria at an early age. He was educated at University School, Victoria High School and the University of British Columbia, from which he graduated as a mining engineer. He practised for some years as a mining engineer before moving to New York where he was engaged by an investment company.

He volunteered for active service when the United States entered the war and was appointed to General Douglas MacArthur's intelligence service in Australia. He saw service later in the Philippines and Japan.

RECEIVED U.S. AWARD

The Netherlands decoration was bestowed on him in recognition of his work in co-operation with Dutch forces in Indonesia. He had previously received the Legion of Merit from the United States Government.

Col. McVittie's mother expects her son and his wife in Victoria where they will spend an extended holiday during the Summer.

Urges Settlement Of Freight Strike

PORT ALBERNI, April 20 — Mayor L. K. Jordan, on behalf of the Port Alberni City Council, telephoned to the Provincial Conciliation Officer at Victoria asking that action be taken immediately to settle the strike of Island Freight Service, Ltd., truck drivers.

Failing action, the City Council will contact other Up-Island municipalities and businessmen with a view to sending a delegation to interview the authorities.

The situation had come to the point, the mayor said, that within a short time Port Alberni would be without meat, and would have only limited quantities of green vegetables. Where the welfare of the citizens was involved, the council, as a governing body, must protect its citizens, the mayor asserted.

The matter was brought to a head when a delegation of local hotel keepers asked for council action.

I. Rosenbaum, speaking to a suggestion by Ald. A. C. Flanagan, said it looked as if the Island Freight Service intended to go out of business, as its beer contract ran out several months ago, and no attempt had been made to renew it.

Alderman W. S. Yates declared it looked as if the company was trying to freeze out the union, and he did not think the Island Freight Service was bargaining in good faith.

It was mentioned by a hotelman that the breweries were willing to buy the Island Freight Service trucks.

Enjoy Concert At Parksville

PARKSVILLE, April 20. — The Port Alberni Junior Girls' Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Nelson Ball, Port Alberni, gave a concert at the Community Hall here on Monday. The choir, trained and directed entirely by Mrs. Ball comprises 30 fine young voices.

In addition to the choir, there were other entertainers from the West Coast city. The Port Alberni Kinsmen Glee Club offered a group of songs. An instrumental trio of violin, cello and piano, played by D. Wallbank, R. Stratton and Mrs. Ball, vocal solos by Mrs. N. McLeod, and piano selections by Mrs. T. Watson were also heard. The musical evening was sponsored by the Parskville Kinsmen Club, and H. J. Parsley was master of ceremonies.

Deliver Notice To Port Dairy

PORT ALBERNI, April 20 — Sitting as a local board of health, the Port Alberni Council decided to give 30 days' notice to Island Farms, a local dairy, to install new bottle-washing machinery or improve the present plant, or action would be taken to close the business.

The decision was made on recommendation of Dr. A. N. Beattie, director of the Vancouver Island Health Unit, Nanaimo.

In a letter, Dr. Beattie said that complaints regarding condition of the containers had been received at intervals since July, 1948, and inspections had shown that the bottle-washing equipment was inadequate.

School Budget Fails to Pass

PORT ALBERNI, April 20—The School Board's estimates will go to arbitration Thursday afternoon. The City Council decided on this course of action following a letter from the board, disagreeing with the council's viewpoint on an item of $4,000 to be transferred to revenue.

It was mentioned that Alberni intended to reopen the school estimates completely, and contest every item except funded debt and teachers' salaries.

Board Defends Stand in Case

PORT ALBERNI, April 20—Alberni district school trustees have been served with a writ by Hubert Savage, Victoria architect, it was announced at a board meeting. The board instructed its solicitor to enter an appearance.

The board terminated Mr. Savage's employment last month. It is understood there is a difference of opinion between Mr. Savage and the board as to sums still owing him for work on school plans in the district.

The board will enter an objection to Ald. J. C. Folkard of Port Alberni being on the arbitration board as city representative, holding that as a council member he is an interested party.

Trustees also decided to take steps to secure a portion of property at the proposed high school site, which is privately owned.

Chemainus Hospital W.A. to Hold Tea

CHEMAINUS, April 20.—Chemainus Hospital W.A. met recently with Mrs. G. Hemmingsen presiding when final arrangements were made to hold the annual hospital donation tea on May 12 with Mrs. G. Lynham convening.

It was decided to purchase new curtains and coverings for the chesterfield and chair in the maid's room and for the general sitting-room. One dozen perma-glass vases have been ordered for ward use. A quantity of operating-room binders were turned in by the sewing convener.

May Send Ship

NANAIMO, April 20. — A United States Navy vessel may take part in jubilee celebrations here May 24. A Canadian vessel is not available for the event, and Admiral DeWolf of Victoria will ask Admiral Good of the United States Navy if he can send a ship.

COURTENAY, April 20.—Tenders for the laying of a finishing coat on Fifth Street will be called this month by the Courtenay City Council. The surfacing was deferred last year in order to permit the roadbed to settle.

ATTEND ERRINGTON DANCE

ERRINGTON, April 20. — More than 200 persons attended a dance sponsored by the hall board in Errington War Memorial Hall.

Eyres Criticizes C.C.F. In Speech at Courtenay

COURTENAY, April 20. — Opening gun in the provincial election campaign in Comox riding was fired by Hon. Leslie H. Eyres, Minister of Trade and Industry, who asked an audience of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives in the Elks' Hall:

"Did you ever see anybody line up with Joe Stalin better than the C.C.F.?"

Mr. Eyres was referring to the stand taken by the C.C.F. convention at Vancouver last week in refusing to endorse the North Atlantic Pact.

The minister took another wallop at the C.C.F. when he referred scornfully to the "fuss" made in the House last session by the C.C.F. over the question of granting water power rights in Northern British Columbia to an aluminum company which proposed to spend $300,000,000 in the province.

TO DEVELOP PROVINCE

"The C.C.F. could find nothing to criticize about the Government's program during the whole session until this matter came up," Mr. Eyres stated. "Then they pulled all the stops and started howling about 'dictatorship' when the Legislature passed the bill authorizing the Lieutenant-Governor-in-council to grant these rights, with the idea of developing the northern part of our province," he explained.

"For a party which by the very nature of its theories is committed to dictatorial methods, it was one of the most ridiculous exhibitions ever seen in the House," Mr. Eyres commented.

The minister saw the June 15 election as one which would decide the extremely vital issue of free enterprise versus Socialism in British Columbia.

"We have in this province people who are insisting on liberating us from our liberties. They are planning this, planning that, planning your life, planning mine. Where is this planning going to end?" he asked.

"What we have in British Columbia has been built up under the system of free enterprise where a man can start as a laborer, and by his own initiative, and hard work, go just as far as he wants," he stated.

CATCHES THREE-FOOT CUTTHROAT AT GREAT CENTRAL

Photograph shows William Carr, Port Alberni, holding three-foot cutthroat trout he caught at Great Central Lake after struggle. He brought fish to landing net, lost it, and then managed to hook it again. Trout weighed 13½ pounds, and is believed to be largest cutthroat landed in Clayoquot district for number of years.

Lake Cowichan To Have Pools

LAKE COWICHAN, April 20.—Plans to erect two wading pools at Lake Cowichan were made at a meeting of the United Organizations Committee.

Delegates reported that their organizations would contribute toward the salary of a recreational director for the Summer. Classes would be given for adults as well as children.

Andrew Atchison, on behalf of the Elks, said that his organization would sponsor a junior softball team. D. C. Bailey presided.

Golfers Name Club Officers

GANGES, April 20.—W. H. Bradley was re-elected president at the annual meeting of the Salt Spring Island Golf Club held recently at "Barnabury." Others named were: Vice-president, W. K. Wickens; men's captain, V. Case Morris; vice-captain, Fred Morris; ladies captain, Mrs. R. T. Meyer; vice-captain, Miss Shirley Wilson; committee, D. K. Crofton, Mack Mouat, A. L. Young and Nels Degnen, and secretary-treasurer, Frank Hemmings.

The president, reporting on the year's work, stated that owing to weather conditions the season had not been quite up to standard. He said that a great deal of work had been done on the course, including improvements to the greens, and new tees. He noted that the fairways would be in good shape, and hoped that several matches would be played during the season, and regular competitions held during the year.

Weather Forecasts

Commerce Group Wants Hospital at Parksville

PARKSVILLE, April 20.—In response to a request from the Parksville and District Chamber of Commerce, a survey was made by Trevor Musto, B.C. Hospital Service consultant, with the view to the possibility of an emergency hospital being built in the Parksville area. Mr. Musto conferred with the Chamber of Commerce president, James B. Washington, and the secretary, E. R. Blackburn and H. J. Parsley, secretary of the Parksville Citizens' Association.

This beinng a logging community it is felt that in the case of accidents, Nanaimo is too far away for emergency treatment, and a small hospital would be a great asset here. The proposed plan is for a five-bed emergency depot that could also be used for maternity cases.

At a recent meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, there was a general discussion about the proposed boat basin at French Creek for which the Federal Government made an appropriation of $75,000. It was decided to confer with the Qualicum Beach Chamber of Commerce about the matter.

G. W. Begley gave a report on the beach cleanup being undertaken by the civic committee, and said many generous donations had been received to help with the project. It was decided to conduct a general cleanup around stores and offices in the village before the tourist season, and burn brush piles on the beach.

Campaign Ends

COURTENAY, April 20.—F. W. Tull, Red Cross campaign manager for Comox District, announced that a total of $2,802 had been collected.

Paints Murals

CAMPBELL RIVER, April 20.—Murals on the walls of the lobby of the Willows Hotel have been completed, and the management has received many compliments on them. The murals include scenes from Elk Falls, Campbell Lake, Cape Mudge Lighthouse, Duncan Bay and Arrowsmith district. Walls of the hotel entrance hall will also bear paintings. Work on the lobby murals was done by J. Stearman, of Vancouver.

Guilty of Selling Liquor, Man Assessed $300

Lionel Filmore, 946 Hillside Avenue, was fined $300 or in default three months in jail at hard labor by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court yesterday when found guilty on a charge of selling liquor.

The offence took place April 5 at the rear of Well's Grocery where the accused his living accommodation.

Defence witnesses during the trial claimed that Fulmore was not selling liquor, but that there was merely a party going on.

"The story of this party is a tissue of falsehoods," declared Magistrate Hall. "The whole story is implausible and false. I'm satisfied these drinks were sold as stated by Constable Kamann."

TAKING CAR CHARGE

John Arthur Sutton, 1144 Oscar Street, was remanded to Friday for judgment on a charge of taking a car without the owner's consent. Charge was laid by Peter Tweedie, Fort Street taxi operator.

Tweedie testified that he hired John Lennox, 1120 Topaz Avenue, to drive one of his cabs on April 3, and on April 4 discovered the car missing. He said he next saw the car at Nanaimo April 6 after it had been involved in an accident. He had given nobody permission to take the car away from town, he said on question by Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor.

On cross-examination by James J. Proudfoot, counsel for Sutton, Tweedie admitted that his car insurance was his main concern in the matter. On further questioning, he said it was the main reason for laying the charge against Sutton.

WENT TO BED

Lennox told the court he met Sutton in a Johnson Street cafe and later went home to bed. He said he had been drinking. When he woke up, he stated that Sutton and the keys were gone.

During cross-examination by Mr. Proudfoot, Lennox admitted he wasn't the holder of a 1949 driver's licence. He said he "didn't think" he gave the accused permission to drive.

"I suggest to you that you were not capable of driving?" said Mr. Proudfoot.

"It's probable," replied Lennox.

He denied that he had asked the accused to take care of the car.

Constable Lorne Johnson told of stopping the accused and Lennox on Cook Street at 3:30 a.m. April 4 because they were driving with dim lights. He said Sutton was driving. He instructed them to lock the car and he would take them home, he said, because neither was in fit condition to drive.

TOOK OVER DRIVING

Sutton testified that he took over the driving when Lennox became ill. When he put Lennox to bed, he said, Lennox told him to take care of the car. He said he went back to where the car was left and went to sleep in it. On waking up about 3 a.m. April 4, Sutton testified he endeavored to locate Lennox's house.

The accused said he met a friend and again tried to find the house without success. It was then, he said, he and his friend went Up-Island to look for a job. Between Parksville and Nanaimo, he said, he was involved in an accident and the car turned over. They had been drinking, he said.

On questioning by Mr. Harrison, the accused said he thought the car was owned by Lennox.

Mr. Proudfoot submitted that the accused should be given the benefit of the doubt under the circumstances because Sutton said Lennox had told him to take care of the car. The defence counsel stressed that Sutton had made an attempt to find Lennox. He also produced a witness who stated the accused had gone to her house seeking information about the whereabouts of Lennox.

Cancel Charge Against Bevis

Charge of unlawfully assenting to calling a strike, laid against F. J. Bevis, business manager of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 230, was withdrawn in city police court yesterday.

J. Howard Harman, acting for the Crown, asked for the withdrawal "now that the points of law have been clarified."

Several months ago Magistrate H. C. Hall dismissed a charge against the union of unlawfully calling a strike.

Information and complaint against the union and the business manager were laid by Mawson Gage Ltd., 714 Cormorant Street.

Blaze Starts In Truck Cab

Considerable damage was caused early yesterday morning when fire broke out in the cab of a truck owned by the Capital Fuel Company, 533 Kelvin Road, at a service station near the Johnson Street bridge.

City firemen said most damage was caused to the truck's upholstery.

EXPENSIVE BEVERAGE

When first discovered and used as a beverage, tea cost from $30 to $50 a pound.

Amy Pohl Weds John Renfrew

Easter decorations made a lovely setting in St. John's Anglican Church on Saturday evening for the wedding of Miss Amy Myrtle Pohl, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Pohl, 2852 Admirals Road, and the late Mr. G. Pohl, and Mr. John Victor Renfrew, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Renfrew, 3361 Doncaster Drive. Rev. George Biddle officiated at the double-ring ceremony and while the register was being signed, Mr. Bob Marconi sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her brother, the bride wore a gown of white satin, cut on princess lines with full skirt en train. Her full length veil was held by a beaded coronet and she carried red roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Grace Pohl, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a gold taffeta gown with full skirt. Miss Roseanna Renfrew was bridesmaid, wearing blue taffeta, while the little flower girl, Jeanette Pohl, wore mauve taffeta. All attendents carried lilies of the valley, mauve stock and heather.

Mr. Charles William Renfrew, brother of the groom, was best man and Mr. Ernest Pohl, brother of the bride and Mr. John Schaufele acted as ushers.

The reception was held at the Naval Veterans' auditorium where Mr. Thomas Vance proposed the toast to the bride. The bridal party received the guests under an arch of flowers and the bride's table was centred with a two-tiered wedding cake surrounded with rosebuds. During the reception, Mr. Leslie Bayliss acted as master of ceremonies and an orchestra played for dancing. Mrs. H. Dawe and Mr. Bob Marconi acted as vocalists and Master Arthur Bayliss played a piano solo.

Leaving for a honeymoon in Vancouver, the bride traveled in a dressmaker suit in burgundy with matching hat, black accessories, and corsage of blue iris and lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Renfrew will reside at 2861 Rockwell Avenue on their return.

Patients Entertained At Veterans' Hospital

Daughters' League Welcomes National President

Canadian Daughters' League, No. 16, Wins Drill Trophy

The drill team of Assembly No. 16, Canadian Daughters' League, Vancouver, was awarded the silver trophy in the provincial competition held at the opening sessions of the league convention in the K. of P. Hall, Cormorant Street, last evening.

The drill team consisting of members from Assembly Nos. 8, 9 and 22 from Vancouver came second, and Assembly No. 6, Courtenay, came third. The winning team is captained by Mrs. J. F. Adams of Vancouver. Adjudicators for the drills were Mrs. Helen Tregallas, Mr. A. J. Stevenson and Mr. Gordon Hartley.

Prior to the drill display, Mrs. J. C. Simpson of Winnipeg, national president of the order, was officially welcomed by Mrs. T. A. Elsom, provincial president, of Vancouver, who presided at the meeting.

His Worship Mayor Percy E. George extended a civic welcome to the delegates attending the 13th annual convention of the order; and Mrs. W. H. Cadman, Jr., past provincial president, Assembly No. 16, Vancouver, moved a vote of thanks.

Others bringing greetings were Col. Donald McGugan, of the Native Sons of Canada; Dr. Marion Sherman, president of the Victoria branch, Local Council of Women, and Miss Isla Tuck, Victoria School Board. Mrs. R. Milburn of Victoria, provincial sentinel, welcomed the delegates on behalf of the Victoria Assembly.

During the evening vocal selections were presented by Miss Bernice Fawcett, Mr. A. Jackson and Mrs. T. Floyd.

Business sessions will commence at 9 a.m. today in the Business and Professional Women's' clubrooms, 1012 Douglas Street.

Chinese W.M.S. Plans Silver Tea

The Chinese Women's Missionary Society of the United Church will hold a silver tea at the Chinese Christian Community Centre, 1120 Pembroke Street, from 3 to 6 p.m., on Friday, it was announced at a meeting of the association, at which Mrs. Joseph Wong presided. Proceeds will be used for the C.G.I.T. Summer camp fund.

Mrs. D. A. Girvin was guest speaker and Mrs. George Guy also spoke.

Elizabeth Celebrates Twenty-Third Birthday

LONDON, April 20 (CP).—Princess Elizabeth, heiress-presumptive to the throne, will be 23 tomorrow.

Even on her birthday, training of the young mother for her future role of queen will continue. She will have a place of honor at the King's luncheon for British Commonwealth statesmen, who will be entertained at Buckingham Palace tomorrow. Canada's representative will be L. B. Pearson, Minister of External Affairs.

The King and Queen will return from Windsor especially to greet the Commonwealth leaders. Princess Elizabeth's husband, Prince Philip, also will attend.

Attendance at affairs of state with their pomp and protocol, is as much a part of Princess Elizabeth's schooling as the study of economics, and the multiple other things a queen must learn.

AWARE OF DEMANDS

A fun-loving young womap who likes to dance and sparkle in her pretty clothes, proud of her infant son, Prince Charles, who may succeed her to the throne, the Princess is keenly aware of what her position demands of her. The people praise her willingness to meet those responsibilities. They idolize her five-month-old prince-son as "good old Charlie."

Two years ago when she was 21, Elizabeth broadcast a pledge to the Commonwealth:

"My whole life, whether it be long or short, shall be devoted to your service and our great imperial family, to which we all belong."

In another speech she told them: "The strength of our country—or of any great country—lies in the home and the family." She is meeting that responsibility, too.

Marion Harrison Weds P. S. Hewson

Canon A. E. Greenhalgh officiated at the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Marion Sheila, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Harrison, 501 Burnside Road East, Victoria, and Mr. Philip Sidney Hewson, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hewson, 2008 Athol Street, Regina, Sask., which took place at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields on April 9.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of "O Perfect Love." She wore a gown of white satin, fashioned with brocaded bodice. Her chapel veil was held by a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a white prayer book and wore a gold pendant, the gift of the groom.

Misses Megan Harrison and Ruth Wells were bridesmaids, wearing lavender and ice blue respectively. They wore matching headdresses and carried roses and carnations.

Mr. Bev. Honor was best man and Mr. Ken Wells was the usher.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Canon Greenhalgh proposed the toast to the bride.

For traveling the bride wore a green gabardine three-piece suit with pink hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was gardenias and roses.

Native Daughters Elect Officers

Mrs. D. Currie was elected chief factor at the annual meeting of the Native Daughters of British Columbia, Post No. 3, held recently.

Other officers are Mrs. H. Corbett, past chief factor; Mrs. G. Burnett, vice-factor; Miss W. Fletcher, chaplain; Mrs. M. Davies, historian; Miss M. Gillis, treasurer; Miss M. Andrews, secretary. Others elected are Mrs. R. Nickerson, Mrs. I. Brown, Mrs. H. Cruikshanks, Mrs. J. King and Mrs. J. Lorimer.

Delegates to Grand Post, Native Daughters of British Columbia, to be held in Vancouver, April 22 and 23, are Mrs. L. Lorimer, Mrs. H. Corbett, Mrs. D. Currie, Mrs. G. Burnett and Mrs. M. Davies, P.G.F.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Cleasby Leave For Honeymoon in San Francisco

At the First United Church Easter Monday afternoon Rev. M. A. J. Walters read the nuptial service uniting Marian Dale, daughter of Mrs. E. M. Howell, 442 Superior Street, and Kenneth Cleasby, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Cleasby, 151 Howe Street.

The bride given away by her uncle, Mr. Albert S. Gimby, wore a white gown, fashioned with bodice of Alencon lace and continuing from point down the resultant full skirt worn over white taffeta. Her [illegible] veil was held by a [illegible] sons. Her pearl necklace and the white ribbon being her Colonial tribute of old of the bride, and pink roses centred with a mauve orchid were mementoes of her mother's own wedding day.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Wilma Anderson, matron of honor, in blue taffeta and carrying a Colonial bouquet of [illegible] and roses. Miss [illegible] Spence and Miss Marian [illegible], cousin of the bride were bridesmaids, dressed in pink and yellow taffeta respectively. They also carried Colonial bouquets.

The bridegroom had his brother Mr. William Cleasby as best man and ushers were Mr. Alfred Foxford and Mr. Weston Anderson.

The reception was held at Strathcona Hotel where Mrs. Howell and Mrs. Cleasby received the guests with the young couple. Mr. William Cleasby proposed the toast. Mrs. A. S. Gimby and Mrs. R. G. Dorey were matrons of the bride and her sister, Miss Jean Gimby, assisted at the reception.

For a honeymoon in San Francisco the bride chose a deep Burgundy gabardine suit with matching hat trimmed in dusty-pink, a Russian squirrel jacket, the gift of the groom, and an orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Cleasby will make their home in Victoria.

Couple Married At St. John's

St. John's Church was the scene of a pretty wedding, Saturday afternoon, when Rev. George Biddlecombe officiated at the marriage of Lorna Mae, [illegible] of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Bay, to Mr. W. C. Hay, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Day, of Victoria, formerly of Northwest Bay, now of England and the late Mr. Hay.

The bride entering the church with her father was radiant in white brocaded satin, fashioned with fitted bodice and a skirt featuring a back panel of shirred satin which fell a graceful train. A veil set of white [illegible] crown, frames head. Her [illegible] of embroidered [illegible] satin, [illegible] and a crescent [illegible] and a [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

Mother! YOUR BABY DESERVES THE PROTECTION

Libby's Extra-Nutritious BABY FOODS

Libby's are the fruits, soups and vegetables that are not only strained, but also homogenized. This exclusive double process gives your baby definite extra benefits which baby cannot get from foods which are only strained.

Straining plus homogenization breaks up food cells—makes these foods easy to digest. And because the food cells are broken, clinical tests show that Libby's helps babies get more nourishment from an equal amount of food.

So choose carefully for your baby. Choose the foods with the added benefits of homogenization. That can mean only one brand of fruits, soups and vegetables—Libby's! The only baby foods that are strained and homogenized.

To Aid Reserve Going to Camp

The city will send representatives of its staff who belong to the reserve forces to attend Summer camp, Mayor Peter George said yesterday.

The mayor said it was the duty of the city to give every reasonable assistance to its employees serving their country in reserve defence units.

Mayor George made this statement yesterday following receipt of a letter from Lt.-Col. R. D. Travis, officer commanding the Canadian S[illegible].

Col. Travis asked that the city [illegible] leave of absence to members of his regiment in the civic service to attend Camp [illegible] at [illegible] from 2 [illegible]

He said the training of reserve units was of special importance because of defence commitments Canada may be called on to make under terms of the North Atlantic Pact.

Outfielders Repeat In Starring Roles

Two slugging outfielders have taken [illegible] of the American League in the opening days of the baseball season.

The individual performances of Reggie Jackson of Detroit Tiger and veteran Tommy Henrich of New York Yankees are directly responsible for the [illegible] between the two [illegible] with two victories and two defeats apiece.

Go[illegible] hit two home runs in Tuesday's opener and other Hitters with a [illegible] effort in the night game yesterday as Detroit beat Chicago White Sox 5-2. Tommy Henrich [illegible] each provided the winning [illegible] for the Yanks, who [illegible] Washington Senators [illegible] yesterday on Vic Raschi's three-hitter.

DOWN BUT NOT OUT

Yank supporters shook their heads sadly when Joe DiMaggio, their top slugger, was shelved with a bad knee. Injury during the training season. Prestige to [illegible] the Bronx [illegible] even [illegible] when Charley Keller the clubs No. 2 slugger, [illegible] a muscle in pre-game practice on opening day and headed for the bench.

But the week of Henrich, last survivor of the regular outfield, saw the sound pitching of fellows like Raschi and a seldom seen triple-steal, on Washington Pitcher Paul Calvert indicated that the Bronx Bombers still have several shots in their locker.

RECORD NOT ENOUGH

Brooklyn Dodgers topped the National League by taking their second in a row from New York Giants 6-2. Rookie Willie Ludduchead Jones equaled a league record by hitting four doubles in a single game for Philadelphia, but the Phils went to Boston 6-[illegible] Chicago's Bob Rush threw a three-hit shutout at Pittsburgh Pirates to give the Cubs a 4-0 victory. St. Louis and Cincinnati were idle.

In other American League games Cleveland Indians evened the score with St. Louis Browns by drubbing them 7-3 after [illegible] Boston Red Sox [illegible] straight to Philadelphia Athletics, who edged them 3-2 in 10 frames.

An Hank Arft [illegible] Brown pitchers blasted up [illegible] Bob Feller's victory seven-hitter for the Cleveland victory. Sam Chapman, veteran Yanks outfielder, [illegible] for Philadelphia with [illegible] winning run in the 10th.

ONE MAN SHOW

Tillicums Reach Finals Of Women's Tenpin Play

[illegible] Bluebird Cans to the final and then copped the decision [illegible] game by 63 pins but came up with their worst effort.

BIG COUNT

Bluebird Cans with a 37 pin advantage in handicap [illegible] game by 63 pins but came up with their worst effort. [illegible] to cop the next game [illegible] third game by 189 pins with the respectable total of 936. Marge Beaney contributed 234 to the big count and Anne Mercer chipped in with 212. Tillicums came back in the fourth encounter to win handily and then won it in the thrilling fifth game. Both teams rolled badly in the decisive clash with Erma Stames showing the most stamina by counting 167 for the winners, while Kay Rose did her best for the losers by rolling her 183 wasted as none of her team mates failed to reach 170.

Tillicums tangle with Hatie Andrews, who won the Women Trophy by finishing on top of the league schedule Tuesday, in a best of five roll-off for the league championship.

National League — Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, Boston, St. Louis, New York, [illegible] Cincinnati.

American League—Boston, Cleveland, Philadelphia, New York, Detroit, St. Louis, Chicago, Washington.

In the two pennant races that got under way this week, there is one big difference between the two leagues. The National League race from top to bottom, should be far closer than the big spread in the American League.

FIVE-TEAM RACE

The National League has five clubs that can win this next pennant. They are Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, Boston, St. Louis and New York. Also the bottom jobs of the senior circuit will be much closer to the winner than the cellar champion in the American League.

The American League has four good clubs, one debatable entry and three push-overs.

There is less than a bare span separating Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Boston, St. Louis and possibly New York. The other three are moving up, but they don't look to be quite ready yet.

We happen to like Pittsburgh because it has the pitching, strong defensive qualities improved pitching and Bill Meyer.

Brooklyn's weakness is its lack of a long-distance hitter, lack of a 20-game pitcher and infield uncertainty.

TOO MANY VETERANS

The St. Louis Cards are on rocky paper and they lack depth in their frame. The weakness of their farm products has dead them back. They have too many veterans from 1946 and 1944. Whitey Kurowski, Marty Marion, Red Schoendienst and first baseman they use, Red Munger and Howie Pollet are still pennant-winning gambles but no one ever gets any younger.

The Braves won a pennant last year with a team that was close to being a second division outfit. They can win it again with an improved outfit. But Johnny Sain can't carry his team forever. He needs a ten-game boost from Warren Spahn. He also needs a better outfield.

You can watch Earl Torgeson this year. If Pete Reiser remains intact he can carry them home on his broad back.

DEPENDS ON SPAHN

The Braves were our first pick. Then we became doubtful that such a team could win twice, especially with Spahn out of line. The left-hander had a poor year in 1948 for a pennant-winning club. He hasn't been too hot this Spring.

The Giants? They could fool everybody. With the pitching they have I can't see them in the first division. The 1949 National League race could be a record-breaker.

RED SOX AND INDIANS

The Red Sox and the Indians should dominate the American League, unless Connie Mack overturns the apple cart. The famous veteran actually believes he is either going to win the American League pennant or turn both the Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians into jitterbugs.

My first inclination was to pick the Indians to repeat. They had improved their 1948 strength. But there were the main questions. Would Bob Feller hold up? Would Boudreau repeat his greatest year? Would Keltner and Gordon be as good? Would Lemon and Bearden stand up? The Indians were full of "ifs."

SOX IMPROVED

So when Joe McCarthy told me his pitching staff was set for a good season, that Harris, Hughson and Ferriss were OK again, that Walt Dropo would be a big help at first, that Kinder would be far more effective this season, I switched to the bean-towners.

I couldn't help but turn back to June, 1948. At this point, the Indians were 11½ games ahead of the faltering, rickety Red Sox. But the Red Sox suddenly turned around and wiped out the 11½-game deficit and caught the Indians down the stretch.

"That won't happen again," Joe McCarthy said. "We won't be 11½ or 5½ games in back of anybody."

The fate of the Yankees is so interwoven with the physical condition of Joe DiMaggio that we find a dark shadow cast over them. In addition to this, the Athletics look to be logical challengers, a team good enough to win.

NOT FAR OFF

Mr. Mack, at the tender age of 86, could have the best pitching staff in either league. He has a first-class infield and a good outfield. The fact is, that Mr. Mack has enough good ball players to beat either Red Sox or Indians with only a little luck.

It would be a bit foolish to count the Yankees out of it. They still have a sound ball club. Like the Athletics, they also might have the best pitching staff in either league with Raschi, Porterfield, Reynolds, Page, Byrne etc. Shea might easily come around. The Yankees will be no soft bargains for either Red Sox or Tigers.

Don't blame Red Rolfe for any Tiger decline. Detroit is below its 1948 form. Rolfe can commit a miracle by finishing fourth. You can discard the other three—Browns, White Sox and Senators.

Wolves' Pilot Not Impressed By "Good Will"

MONTREAL, April 20 (CP) — Max Silverman of Sudbury, Ont., who handled Canada's amateur team in the world hockey tournament, said today his three months stay overseas leads him to believe international [illegible] is [illegible].

Max and the players arrived on the liner Empress of France from Britain. He said the referees [illegible] everything at the Canadians except the goal posts and the rinks.

"It was terrible. They accused us of everything under the sun. They said we were too rough on their boys. That was pure nonsense. We took over a lot of fellows who could do everything but play a rough game.

Maxie's solution is to send a whole hockey team over intact.

U.S. Seeks Games

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP) — The United States Senate passed a resolution today inviting the International Olympic Committee to hold the 1956 Olympic Winter Games at Lake Placid, N.Y.

Montreal has also made known its intention of bidding for the Winter games. Last week civic officials of the Canadian city said they would hold the skiing events in the nearby Laurentian Mountains if their bid was accepted.

Gardella Request Refused by Judge

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP) — Federal Judge Edward A. Conger today denied a motion by Danny Gardella former New York Giant outfielder now under suspension for an order permitting his immediate return to organized baseball.

Gardella had applied for temporary relief pending trial of his suit for a permanent order lifting his suspension imposed for five years after he jumped to the Mexican League in 1946.

Hayman's Mysterious Journey Believed Search for U.S. Aces

MONTREAL, April 20 (CP) — Montreal sport fans, taking a deep breath during the rush overlapping of hockey and baseball, idly speculated today that their Alouettes football team next Fall may be a national charter.

There appears to be some basis for this speculation. The acquisition of formidable Frankie Filchock [illegible] quarterback with Hamilton Tiger-Cats is already known.

Filchock and Al [illegible] outstanding all-star Vince Wagner will undoubtedly form the nucleus of the backfield.

Of perhaps more immediate pertinence is the mysterious disappearance last week-end of Coach Lou Hayman, for [illegible] in the United States.

Hayman didn't leave for his health or to watch the opening of the baseball season. Word has got around that he won't be back until he has landed some super-duper talent, preferably all Americans, for his Alouettes.

There were whispers that Hayman headed for New York, Cleveland and Boston areas and may possibly go into the deep South for hardy material that will boom in the North.

Present indications are that Hayman will try to put the finger on four American stalwarts for importation.

The backfield and remainder of the line will be rounded out with Canadians, holdovers from last year or newcomers suitable for big-time duty.

EDMONTON TIE-UP

With all the quiet undercover preparations for next season, a possibility was seen of a tie-up between Alouettes and Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Canada League.

Before leaving on his trip Hayman had a long talk with Annis Stukus, Toronto newspaperman former coach of the Eskimos. Big Stukus was a star wolf [illegible] Alouettes when Hayman coached the Eskimos.

Stukus and Hayman came out of their huddle with an positive statements, but it is believed the area and [illegible] new Edmonton coach is [illegible]. Yet at least [illegible] Hayman about [illegible] Montreal in the Montreal can pare from Los Angeles.

7,551,058* bank accounts
YOU TAKE for granted that your bank keeps your account private . . . even though yours is one of more than seven million deposit accounts in Canada's 3,385 branch banks.
When you put money in, take it out, arrange a loan — transact any of your banking business — nobody need know about it but you and your bank.
It's the most confidential business relationship you have.
Canada's ten chartered banks compete to serve you, in handling your cheques, lending money, safeguarding your funds — and in many other ways. You know you can always expect privacy and efficiency . . .
*As of September 30, 1948.
State monopoly of banks would wipe out competition and would open your bank account to the eye of the [illegible]

Vast Help to China Tapers Off As U.S. to End Flow This Year

WASHINGTON, April 21 (NANA) —Congressional pressure for a vast new program of aid to China was diminishing rapidly here as the Truman Administration moved, with increasing support, to choke off the flow of relief funds entirely by mid-Summer.

Convinced that any further aid to the Nationalist Government would only increase the growing antagonism of the Chinese people toward the United States, the Administration has proposed that the unexpended balance of last year's appropriation be stretched over the next three months, and tapered off by June 30.

The picture which Administration officials have painted in their discussions with Congressional committees and with informal groups of Republican critics is approximately as follows:

TREMENDOUS AID

The United States has extended more aid to the Chinese Government "proportionately" than it has to the nations of Western Europe. It has given the Chinese $2,000,000,000 and permitted them to buy another $1,000,000,000 worth of war materials at a tiny fraction of their cost. It has removed 3,000,000 Japanese soldiers and civilians from China and sent them home. It has airlifted seven Chinese armies into Manchuria and kept them supplied. It has trained 30 Chinese divisions and equipped them completely. It has built up a navy and air force for the use of the Nationalist Government.

In 1945, at the end of the World War, the armies of the Nationalist Government outnumbered the Communist forces by five to one and the Government possessed the largest balances of foreign exchange in its history.

In its disastrous campaign against the Communists, the Nationalist Government has lost all North China. It has lost 44 armies comprising 1,000,000 men, and 94 per cent of the military equipment that the United States provided.

Today the Chinese Communists can go through China at will and there is no longer any force capable of resisting them successfully. The only thing which prevents them from taking over all of China at once is their lack of trained administrative personnel and their resultant inability to establish effective local governments in the newly-captured territory.

Faced by what they regard as a disaster in China, Administration officials here are conceding that virtually anything they do now is bound to be wrong.

FORSEE APPEALS

The Communists—because of their lack of administrative forces—have not sought to take over the populous seacoast cities of China; but if all American aid is stopped immediately, these cities would inevitably appeal to the Communists to come in and rescue them from starvation.

On the other hand, if the American Government should spend another hundred million or two in support of the Nationalists, it would be relieving the Communists of the necessity of taking over these cities until they are ready to do so, and could administer them well.

Taking a middle course, therefore, the Truman Administration proposes to taper off American aid during the next three months, during which time the Chinese will have an opportunity to work out their own salvation.

Two Delegates Receive Posts At T.L.C. Meet

Walter Andrews and John L. Martin were named delegates to the church and labor liaison organization at a meeting of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council last night.

A. P. Rayment was also elected to represent the Trades and Labor Council on the British Columbia Advisory Committee on Practical Education.

Thomas Gooderham, organizer for the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, reported signing a satisfactory agreement for the Esquimalt Municipal employees and also that a charter had been granted to the automotive workers and garagemen in Port Alberni.

Charles Peck told members that the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 230, have now signed agreements with the majority of the electrical contractors in this area.

Another report by E. Callan stated that satisfactory agreements had been signed with the Royal Dairy, Board of Police Commissioners, and St. Joseph's Hospital.

Attention Wreckers!

SEALED tenders will be received by the undersigned up until noon on Tuesday, April 26th, 1949, for demolition and removal of the frame dwelling house known as 2816 Graham Street, Victoria, B.C.

Specification and form of tender may be obtained from this office. This form of tender to be returned in a sealed envelope marked "Tender for Demolition of Building."

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

O. F. SHARPE,
City Purchasing Agent.

ESTATE OF FRANK COOTE, DECEASED

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

NOTICE is hereby given that all creditors and other persons having any claims or demands against the estate of Frank Coote, deceased, late of Rocky Point, in the District of Metchosin, Vancouver Island, in the Province of British Columbia, who died intestate on or about the 24th day of February, 1949, at the City of Victoria, Province aforesaid, administration of whose estate was granted on the 20th day of April, 1949, in the Victoria Registry of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, to Rupert Leslie Coe, Official Administrator for the County of Victoria, are hereby required to send by post prepaid full particulars in writing of their claims and demands, verified by Statutory Declaration, to the undersigned, on or before the 21st day of May, 1949, and all parties who have any assets belonging to or who are indebted to the said Deceased, are required to forward particulars of same to me forthwith; and that the said Administrator will, after the last-mentioned date, proceed to distribute the assets of the said intestate among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims and demands of which he shall then have had notice.

And take further notice that, pursuant to Section 38 of the "Trustee Act," the said Administrator will not be liable for the assets of the said intestate, or any part thereof so distributed, to any person or persons of whose claims and demands he shall not have had notice by the said 21st of May, 1949, and that he will make final distribution of the assets at the expiration of one year after the death of the said Deceased.

Dated at Victoria, B.C., this 21st day of April, 1949.

R. L. COX,
Official Administrator, County of Victoria,
Administrator of the Estate of Frank Coote, deceased, 319 Central Building, Victoria, B.C.

Patents Mount As Germans File Secrets

FRANKFORT, April 14 (N.A.N.A.) —German inventors have more than 75,000 applicants for patents pending. In that fact alone economists here read a promising future for Germany once the regains her right to self-rule.

A further number of inventions or secrets for new processes are being kept entirely under the hat, according to American Military Government authorities. Germans are taking no chances that their brain children will be stolen.

NO OFFICE ESTABLISHED

While a German patent office as such has not yet been established, the Military Government last August opened an office at Darmstadt where applications at least could be filed. More than 20,000 applications came in within the first few days.

Protection of applications is guaranteed by priority of the filing date and by the solemn assurance of the British and American Governments that inventors' secrets will be safeguarded in the period before a regular patent office is set up.

Officials point out that the backlog of inventions waiting for patent protection is the result of nearly ten years' tinkering with peacetime projects. Only military inventions were filed after the World War started in 1939.

American technical experts asserted that the most valuable patents will have to do with chemical processes which Germans plan to use as a weapon in international trade competition after German sovereignty and international patent rights are obtained.

WORLD LEADER

German, it was said, is the world's leader in techniques of oxygen gasification and synthetic manufacture from coal. German know-how in these fields came from the enormous sums spent by the Nazis to gain self-sufficiency in oil.

Inventions which have been unveiled to date under the stimulus of manufacturing products for export abroad include:

An improved electric sewing machine, a Diesel farm tractor said to use 40 per cent less fuel than present models, light but strong railway passenger coaches made of alloys and plastics, a machine for turning bomb rubble into concrete blocks, a five-string violin with a tone rare in anything but a Stradivarius, and, last but not least, ersatz foods which can be made to taste like real beef, lamb, pork, chicken or fish.

Dog on Road Walks Away In "Tragedy"

Mrs. M. West, 605 Speed Avenue, telephoned city police to report that the dog was lying in the middle of the road, "apparently run over."

But when a constable reached the scene of the tragedy, the dog got up and slowly walked away.

"He was old and crippled," reported the constable.

But the dogs that were damaging the garden of T. Hunt, 1246 Rudlin Street, were a little too lively, according to his complaint to the police.

Also too numerous.

The list included a police dog, a black retriever, a brindle-colored Spitz, "and several others," Mr. Hunt reported.

Police said that they would notify the poundkeeper.

Wind Spares Town Ravages of Fire

MOOSE JAW, Sask., April 20 (CP) —A strong westerly wind was credited with saving the hamlet of Tilney from destruction today as fire destroyed a grain elevator and 25,000 bushels of wheat. Tilney is 18 miles southeast of here.

Damage was estimated at more than $60,000.

The Moose Jaw Fire Department and hundreds of district farmers in cars, trucks and tractors stood by helplessly as the building burned and wheat poured from all sides.

Dogs on Loose Bring Protest

"If one-quarter of the effort put into enforcing the traffic by-law was put into enforcing a dog by-law, some improvement should result," J. Arnott, 2761 Dewdney Avenue, informed Oak Bay Council last night.

Council later went into a huddle with the poundkeeper to deal with residents' complaints of destructive and noisy canines.

Mr. Arnott said if the dogs aren't overrunning one's garden, they "yip by the hour," owners taking no notice of them.

SIX BLOOMS

After reading in The Daily Colonist of an Easter lily with four blooms on one plant, Mrs. Victor Lang, Tuxedo Drive, brought to The Colonist office a lily with six blooms. Four of the blooms were cut and two in the bud stage. She declared the back of her property was blanketed with the flower in an uncultivated state with three-bloom and doubles not uncommon.

Asserts Man Originated In Tibet

NEW YORK, April 18 (N.A.N.A.) —The human race originated in Tibet some 3,000,000 years ago, according to Prof. Hugo Bernatzik of the University of Graetz, Austria, who bases his assertion on explorations in Asia.

Professor Bernatzik was interviewed recently by the Madrid newspaper, Informaciones, while passing through Spain as chief of a scientific expedition headed for Spanish Guinea and the Rio De Oro territory in Mauretania.

The Austrian scientist, world famous for his discovery of the Yuncbri tribe in the mountains between French Indo-China and Thailand, said that the yellow race tends to increase and gain new territories while the black race tends to die out. He added that the most physically perfect race is that of the brown-skinned people of the Solomon Islands.

NAVIGABLE WATERS PROTECTION ACT
R.S.C. 1927, Chapter 140

BRITISH Columbia Power Commission hereby gives notice that it has, under Section 7 of the said Act, deposited with the Minister of Public Works, at Ottawa, and in the office of the District Registrar of the Land Registry District of Alberni at Victoria, B.C., a description of the site and detailed plans of an overhead power cable proposed to be stretched over the Somass River at Alberni, from the foot of Josephine Street to Lot 68, Alberni District.

And take notice that after the expiration of one month from the date of the first publication of this notice, British Columbia Power Commission will, under Section 7 of the said Act, apply to the Minister of Public Works at his office in the City of Ottawa, for approval of the said site and plans.

Dated at Victoria, B.C., this 19th day of March, 1949.

BRITISH COLUMBIA POWER COMMISSION.
By its Solicitor,
J. L. WILSON.

WESTCOAST TRANSMISSION COMPANY LIMITED

NOTICE is hereby given that an application will be made to the Parliament of Canada, at the present or following ensuing session thereof, for an Act to incorporate a company under the name of Westcoast Transmission Company Limited.

The objects of the Company are to construct, install, maintain, equip, own, operate and use a pipe line or pipe lines, to transport or transmit natural gas, from the general Edmonton area of the Province of Alberta or from a point or points which are north of Township 83 in the said Province or from a point or points in the north-eastern portion of the Province of British Columbia where natural gas can be obtained to a point or points within, at or near the Cities of Vancouver and New Westminster in the Province of British Columbia, and from there to the State of Washington, and other places in the United States of America; to construct, install, maintain, equip, own, operate and use appropriate branch or lateral gathering and distributing pipe lines to the main line of lines to or from consumers, distributors or suppliers of natural gas adjacent to the main line or lines; to transport, transmit, pipe and convey, natural gas from such gas, and oil gas, areas in the Provinces of Alberta and British Columbia as may be approved by duly constituted governmental authority through such pipe line or pipe lines; to construct, acquire, maintain, own, operate and use all such structures, reservoirs, plants, equipment and facilities for the gathering, transportation and storage of natural gas; to buy, or otherwise acquire natural gas and a mixture of artificial and natural gas; to sell, distribute or otherwise dispose of natural gas and a mixture of artificial and natural gas; to acquire and hold land for the purpose of the Company, subject to Sections 218 to 248 inclusive of the Railway Act so far as applicable. The works of the Company will extend beyond the limits of one Province and will be declared to be for the general advantage of Canada.

The said Company requests it be subject to any Act passed by the Parliament of Canada for the purpose of regulating the construction, maintenance and operation of pipe lines, plant and equipment used in the transportation, storage and distribution of natural gas.

Dated at Ottawa, the 18th day of March, 1949.

CHAPTER XXIV—Continued

But she always fell back upon the same defensive line of reasoning. How could love come like that? Even Andy's story didn't reassure her. It seemed to Carol that she would have to know him quite a little while. And he ought to know her the same way. How could this man love her so completely as he said he did? And how could it leave her feeling so uncertain—about everything?

Chester answered one of her questions by coming to call on a Thursday evening without warning.

"Well," he remarked, when Carol had ushered him in the parlor, "somebody was telling me that this is beau night in Jericho, so I thought I'd try it out . . . being a solid citizen now." He seemed so boyishly pleased at the idea that Carol found herself unable to resent it. And when he continued with: "You can have the chair with your back to the light tonight: I don't mind," she was so confused that she accepted the suggestion gratefully.

"You are very sure about things, bantering air as she attempted pull herself together.

"But of course. You're just a little bit glad to see me, I hope."

"I don't know." She spoke in such a flat tone that Chester sobered at once.

"I'm afraid I thought you would be and, of course, I have no reason to."

"You take things so for granted," she insisted. "And I'm not like that. I have to think things out. Sometimes it takes a long while."

"That's all right, Carol," he answered gravely. "If you decide that I am right about things . . . I know somehow that you will never change your mind. I love that little air of calmness that always is a part of your background and your . . . steadfastness." He smiled slightly. "That word I'm afraid sounds like Fitzgerald Darry, but it's the nearest to what I mean. Would dependable be a better one?"

"I'm not sure at all that I'm dependable. But I am sure that it isn't right for me to let you go on . . . I mean let you feel encouraged that I will never be the way you want me to be. When I don't know at all and may not be for a long time."

"Are you sure that I can't help you make up your mind?"

"I'm afraid I'm very sure."

on caring and hoping. You just might learn to believe in me."

"I do believe that you are sincere I told you that. It's just me."

"And can we do nothing about you? I'm willing to try anything . . . except to stop loving you. That's understood."

"Are you?" Carol seemed not to notice the stipulation. There was a little note of determination in her voice. "Mr. Dennison—"

"You can't make it Chester yet?" he interrupted.

"Not just yet. I'm going away from Jericho next week and—"

"Really? Not for long is it?"

"I'm not sure for how long. Oh, not for a very great while," she added as she saw the look of dismay on his face. "But it will give me time to think out some things. It just might make quite a difference. I don't know."

"I see. And you have a suggestion you'd like to make."

"Perhaps."

"I'll make it easy for you in that case. You're thinking it might help if you didn't see me again . . . until afterwards."

"Yes," she answered simply.

"That's fair. I'm merely going to tell you that I will be loving you every hour until I do see you. And we'll let it go at that. God knows, my dear, I'd never worry you against your will . . . much as I've learned to like saying what I've just told you. Will you let me know when you return?"

"Of course."

"Very good. I'm being so magnanimous it hurts . . . Is your father home? Perhaps you'd find it more comfortable if we joined the family."

"That's . . . sweet of you," she said and rose to her feet. "Andy and Amos are playing cards for a change. They'll be glad to see you. Aunt Cassie, too."

Dennison declined good-naturedly to be initiated further into the mysteries of three-handed pinochle and the other two men adjourned their game in favor of general conversation. Aunt Cassie brought in a dish of apples then returned to her corner and her knitting. Carol noticed almost at once that she took no part whatever in the talk; also that Mrs. Steel's tight lipped mouth indicated that something had disturbed her usual equanimity. Her niece wondered uneasily whether Mr. Dennison could have anything to do with it, yet Aunt Cassie heretofore had seemed always to enjoy his company.

A little later the older woman wound up her ball of yarn, plunged her needles in it almost vindictively and remarked that she was going to bed. Chester got up as usual, but the gesture was rewarded with nothing more than an unsmiling

The next morning Aunt Cassie retained the same taciturn air and Carol was not greatly surprised when she followed her to her room after breakfast. Mrs. Steel was about to unburden herself of information that caused her to close the door before she sat on the unmade bed.

"Carol."

"Yes, Auntie?"

"I've got to tell you something, child. I hate to, but I must. There's some nasty talk going around. Have you heard it?"

"About whom?" Carol dropped into a chair. Her heart was pounding uncomfortably.

"Your father."

"Andy!" The brown eyes were incredulous. "Oh, you don't mean that, Auntie! It can't be so."

"Well, it is. Your father and my only brother. It's got to do with a woman, of course. I've been expecting something of the sort."

Only the tragic look in Cassandra Steel's dark eyes prevented Carol from laughing in sheer relief.

"Who is the lady, Auntie?"

"I didn't say anything about a lady! You might know who she'd be. It's that frowsy, bleached-haired Corwin woman. That's who. Your father's running after her!"

"Who says so?"

"Well, yesterday afternoon Elsie says there's something she thinks I should know. She didn't want to tell, but I made her . . . after she dropped a hint. She swears there's hardly a morning she doesn't see your father walking through that woman's gate as bold as brass. No wonder he hired that Greek man to tend shop! He's spending his time pollyfoxing around where he has no business to be. He can't do that."

"But, Auntie . . . why shouldn't they be friends?"

SAMMY JAY GIVES PETER DIRECTIONS

Peter Rabbit was all curiosity as he demanded what it was that Sammy Jay had found that would be of interest to him. Of course, Sammy had known that he would be. It doesn't take much to arouse Peter's curiosity. Some people are just that way. A word or two is enough to get them all worked up. Sammy cocked his head to one side and looked at Peter shrewdly.

"Do you think that you can follow my directions exactly?" he asked.

Peter nodded his head vigorously. "Of course," he replied. "Just give them to me and see. But what is it you saw that you think will interest me? It might not, you know."

"I don't know anything of the sort," replied Sammy. "On the contrary, I know that it will interest you. It interested me a great deal, and anything that will interest me is bound to interest you. But I'm not going to tell you what it is. I'm going to let you have the fun of finding it. If when you find it you don't say that it is one of the most surprising things you have seen in all your life, my name isn't Sammy Jay."

"My, this sounds exciting," cried Peter.

By this time Peter was all ears as the saying is. He had forgotten all about his disappointment over not finding the secret of Ol' Mistah and Mrs. Buzzard. He was impatient to be off in quest of this mysterious and interesting thing that Sammy Jay had found.

"All right, Sammy. I'll wait to find out for myself what it is," said he. "It is fun sometimes not to know just what it is you are looking for. Where did you say this thing is?"

"I didn't say," replied Sammy, his sharp eyes twinkling with mischief. "First you must promise to do exactly as I say."

"I promise," declared Peter with great promptness.

"Very good," said Sammy. "The first thing to do is to go over to that dead tree where you saw Ol' Mistah Buzzard this morning. You know where that is, don't you?"

"Of course I know where that is," retorted Peter.

"When you get there turn to your right until you come to a little thicket of young hemlock trees," continued Sammy. "Back of that thicket is a great big hollow log."

"I know about that log," Peter interrupted. "I've hidden in it more than once. What's next?"

"When you reach that log, you must be very quiet," replied Sammy. "You must steal along beside it to the open end without making a sound. You mustn't rustle so much as a leaf."

"My, this sounds exciting!" cried Peter. "What then?"

"Poke your head around and look inside. You'll see what it is that I found," replied Sammy.

A sudden suspicion crept into Peter's head. "There isn't anything there that is likely to hurt me, is there?" he demanded. "Reddy Fox isn't asleep in there, or anything like that?"

Sammy looked so earnest that Peter's suspicion left him at once. In fact he was a little ashamed of having been suspicious.

"All right," said he. "I'm off. And away he went, lipperty-lipperty-lip.

Next Story: Peter jumps almost out of his skin.

Glowing Picture of Dominion Future Sketched by Dean J. N. Finlayson

Dean J. N. Finlayson, president of the Engineering Institute of Canada and head of the faculty of applied science, University of British Columbia, is a native of Pictou, Nova Scotia.

But last night he told the Victoria branch of the institute that he thought he could qualify as a Canadian—not specifically a "Maritime" Canadian.

"I have made a living in every province except the new one," he said—"and Prince Edward Island."

He betrayed a weakness for the Maritimes, however, when he said that "the Island" didn't boast many engineers—or a branch of the Institute—because the "original project" was so well executed engineers didn't have to improve on it.

SEES BRIGHT FUTURE

The distinguished engineer, who has held important company and [illegible] across Canada and in the United States, sketched a glowing picture of the Dominion's future as new mining and engineering developments across the country come into being.

Dean Finlayson said his recent tour had given him an opportunity to study developments from the aluminum plant on the Saguenay River in Quebec to the Campbell River Power Development on Vancouver Island, which could "well supply," he said, the requirements of the aluminum interests who were "sincerely interested" in building a major supplement to the Saguenay project. Other locations on the West Coast of British Columbia also fitted the bill, he stated.

HUGE OIL SUPPLY

The Institute president also quoted forecasts that the Alberta oil fields would soon be supplying the entire Canadian demand as well as exporting "a certain quantity" of oil to the United States.

"And news of substantial pitchblende deposits in Saskatchewan mean that province must also be considered in the estimate of Canada's mineral resources," he pointed out.

"Many unforeseen changes in a country's industry occur in a lifetime," the veteran engineer remarked.

He quoted a speech made by the late Joseph Chamberlain at the turn of the century, to illustrate this point.

The British statesman, speaking in the first decade of this century in South Africa, said, with some amazement: "It is remarkable how the different parts of the Empire complement each other. South Africa has much mineral wealth, very little agriculture. Canada, on the other hand, has the richest soil in the world — but absolutely no minerals at all."

BRIDGE DISCUSSED

The speaker discussed with interest the proposed start of the bridge across the Strait of Canso, to join Cape Breton and the mainland of Nova Scotia.

Stressing importance of the $13,500,000 project to the mining industry of Cape Breton, Dean Finlayson said that he knew of one old gentleman who wouldn't be pleased.

"He used to thank God every night for the Strait of Canso, which kept Cape Breton separated from the rest of Nova Scotia," the Dean remarked.

The speaker intimated that he was disappointed when a recent suggestion to permit graduates with Bachelor of Arts degrees, who later went into engineering, to join the institute without further examination, had been opposed by the "four largest provinces."

URGES CENTRAL COUNCIL

Dean Finlayson concluded his address with the plea that the membership give some thought to the necessity of the institute working with other engineering associations to form a central council empowered to voice the opinion of "all Canadian engineer" on matters of national importance.

"The people have a right to expect such unified opinion," he said. "We should forget regional differences and concentrate on formation of such a council."

Symphony Scores Hit With Request Program

An enthusiastic audience of more than 1,500 practically cheered the Victoria Symphony Orchestra last evening when an all-request program from this season's repertoire was presented at the Bay Street Armoury, in the orchestra's first promenade concert.

Under the leadership of Hans Gruber, who has just completed his first season with the group, the orchestra has improved remarkably.

The violins particularly, showed a most satisfying warmth, precision of attack and clean phrasing, and the Haydn "Serenade for Strings," given as an extra, was lovely.

FULL TONE NOTED

Opening the first part of the program with the "Grand March" from Verdi's "Aida," the full tone of the orchestra was at once noted. Perhaps because of the larger auditorium, the majesty and triumph of the composition fairly rang out.

Rossini's Overture to the "Barber of Seville" gave the strings rather more scope, and Boccherini's "Minuet" was light and graceful. Later in the program Strauss' "Blue Danube" fairly set the feet dancing, and was so popular it had to be repeated.

Liszt's "Les Preludes" was also a great favorite, and the second movement, the "Andante" of Mozart's "Serenade for String Orchestra," was beautiful. The final movement was not quite so successful, perhaps, but on the whole, the poetic quality of the music was well brought out.

BRASSES STAND OUT

The brasses came into their own in the "March Militaire" by Schubert, and more particularly in the rousing "Overture Solennelle, 1812" by Tschaikowski.

As an extra, Morton Gould's "Pavanne" was given, to the delight of the audience. Dr. H. E. Green was the soloist.

In a brief intermission speech, Sam Clack thanked the women's committee, who had charge of the program, under the convenership of Mrs. F. D. Mara. Mr. Clack recalled that some eight years ago, with a budget of $750 a small group of enthusiasts performed an act of faith by organizing the Victoria Symphony Orchestra. It is now the fourth largest in Canada, and if Victoria wants it to continue to function, there must be increased and determined steady support for it.

Aims of Health Body Outlined to Delegates

Health is a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity, Dr. G. F. Amyot, deputy minister of health, told delegates to the annual Provincial Public Health Workers' Institute meeting here.

Describing the work and aims of the World Health Organization, Dr. Amyot said that W.H.O. does not attempt to be a police organization.

"It does give service on request from any government in strengthening health services," he stated.

FOUR MAJOR FIELDS

The W.H.O. started its work in four important fields, he said. These were malaria, maternal and child health, tuberculosis and venereal disease. Later, nutrition and environmental sanitation were added to the list, he stated.

The speaker pointed out that all these problems were common to all the member countries, with the exception of malaria.

Other fields for action include public health administration and an expert committee on habit-forming drugs, the speaker said.

"Informed opinion and active co-operation on the part of the public are of the utmost importance in the improvement of the health of the world's people," Dr. Amyot said, stressing that this point of view was one of the basic principles of the health organization.

The speaker emphasized the altruistic nature of public health improvement work.

"In gaining health, no country takes it from another," he stated.

Variety Show To Aid Youth

Esquimalt Community Centre staged a Spring Variety Show in the Boilermakers' Hall, 802 Esquimalt Road, last night, and treated a large audience to two hours of brisk and varied entertainment.

Pretty Jill Shepard, Victoria's Red Feather girl, was on hand to officially open the show.

Entertainers, under Emcee Harold Ker, were Bob McGill and Fred Usher of the "Hometowners," Jerry Gosley's "Smile Show," Ralph Pashley and Tommy Hunt, comedian.

Featured on the program were pupils of the Community Centre dancing class and other pupils of Mrs. Frank Farrow.

Proceeds of the show go to aid youth activities in Esquimalt, the committee reports.

Oak Bay Briefs

A. D. Findlay, Oak Bay municipal clerk, and E. H. Hart, assistant clerk, will attend the annual conference of the Municipal Officers' Association at the Empress Hotel, June 7 and 8.

Oak Bay Council last night approved of allowing employees to attend annual training with the reserve forces this Summer.

"Members of our armed forces are recognized more than ever as Canadians who work for us and form an essential and important element in our country," wrote Defence Minister Brooke Claxton.

Council made a grant of $500 to the Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee.

Women's Auxiliary of the Royal Jubilee Hospital was given permission to hold a tag day, April 30.

Oak Bay's Bid For School Aid Draws Retort

The Provincial Government bears 53.08 per cent of Oak Bay school costs, Education Minister W. T. Straith informed the council by letter last night.

The minister was replying to a council resolution calling on the Provincial Government to bear a greater cost of education.

Council referred the communication to the estimates committee when Councillor P. A. Gibbs, chairman of the finance committee, said he had some remarks to make on the matter.

CREDIT NOT GIVEN

"It is apparent you have not given credit to the Provincial Government for the municipal aid tax. The Government feels that, in considering the respective shares of school costs borne by the municipalities and province, credit should be given for the substantial amounts received by the municipalities from this source. The Government's policy has been to remove progressively the cost of education from land, and in 1948 the social service and municipal aid tax was introduced for that purpose," stated Mr. Straith.

He said that it is true that the revenue accruing to the municipalities from this source was not earmarked for any special municipal purpose. Such a course, he said, would not be practical because the amount of the municipal tax received by some municipalities exceeds the total of ordinary expenditures for school purposes, and also it is the prerogative of each municipality to allocate its revenue as its council sees fit.

City Gets Reaction to Order To Demolish, Repair Dwellings

Reaction to a City Council order to demolish and repair dwellings within the city was contained in a letter received at City Hall yesterday from Alfred Carmichael, of Victoria Properties, Ltd.

The company owns dwellings at 2118 and 2120 Douglas Street and 641 Princess Avenue ordered demolished within 60 days because city officials had found them unfit for human habitation.

Mr. Carmichael advised rents and tenures of these dwellings had been subject to regulations made and enforced by the rentals administrator. If this had not been the case, he stated, the property "in all likelihood would have been sold and a commercial building erected on the site."

WANT CONSENT

"The company feels it cannot assume the responsibility to vacate the tenants without the consent of the rental administrator, who advises it is necessary for the city to show that the house is 'unfit for human habitation,'" declared Mr. Carmichael.

He said the company agreed to have the premises demolished as soon as the city "secures the departure of the tenants."

In regard to property at 827 Pandora Avenue, owned by Victoria Properties and ordered repaired to meet requirements within 60 days, Mr. Carmichael advised the rental administrator an increase in rent of the building from $55 to $71.50 per month.

The company official stated improvements to the building were in progress when recent publicity was given the city order.

LISTS ACCOMMODATION

"In this apartment house there are 21 rooms, three bathrooms and one laundry occupied by 20 people," advised Mr. Carmichael. "As this is commercial property it is obvious that it would be unremunerative to spend any large amount on the building as it is expected it would be in demand for commercial purposes within a reasonable time. The company, however, will consent to spend any reasonable amount to keep it in service as accommodation for people in the low income group who cannot afford more elaborate premises."

He said the city order did not mention specific repairs demanded, "and we would suggest that the official responsible for the report which prompted the order confer with us in the matter of minimum requirements."

WESTERHAM, Kent, England (CP).—The rifle range here, where thousands of soldiers and airmen perfected their shooting in two wars, is being demolished. The land will be returned to cultivation.

Wants Job As "Bobbie" With City

A resident of Essex, England, has written Police Commissioner James Neely, applying for a position on the city police force.

He is W. E. Anderson, who wrote that he has read of the commission troubles with the men about wearing the old-type uniform as a tourist attraction.

"With myself in mind, would it not be a good plan to allow a number of Englishmen to join your department for the main reason of fulfilling the duties where the disputed uniform is necessary.

"I feel sure the accent would add color to the uniform, and create greater interest for the tourists," stated the hopeful.

Commission decided yesterday to write and thank the Englishman, but inform him there are no vacancies on the force.

Dear Sirs:
My husband has been a sufferer of Arthritis for about 10 years and about 18 months ago started to take Lantigen. He has taken six bottles and has found great relief. The pain was mostly in his feet and he walked very badly. But now he walks much better and the pain is almost gone from his feet, which shows Lantigen helped a lot.
He has slept better since taking LANTIGEN.
